REED, OF MAINE

The Republican Ex-Speaker Delivered an Able and Humorous Speech in the House This Morning.He Was in a Happy Mood and His Address Was Frequently Punctuated by Applause.Side Thrust at the New Chairman Committee on Ways and Means.The Banks Now Doing as Thoroughly a Patriotic Duty as Any Man Before Him.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The last day of the silver debate in the house began with a large attendance on the floor and in the galleries. The first speech was made by Mr. Clark (Democrat, of Alabama), who spoke in support of the Wilson bill. Mr. Clark was followed by Mr. Reed, of Maine, who began to speak at 11:30.

In beginning his speech Mr. Reed confessed doubts of the wisdom of the house to do it, but expressed his comfort at being able to fall back upon the well-established belief in the wisdom of the decisions of congress. Crises like the present, he said, were the inseparable accompaniments of all human progress, which is a series of upward starts and falls of almost proportionate length. The former may be characterized in a word, "confidence," the latter in another word, "distrust." Their fluctuations occur almost simultaneously, always sympathetically, the world over, so closely is business allied by telegraph and railroad.

Because of the fact that the drain of gold from the United States since the passage of the Sherman act, has been estimated at the sum of $500,000,000, the purchases of silver under the law, people saw in it the cause of the loss of the gold, and distrust of the government, and a season of hoarding and depression set in, and today the country is suffering all the calamities of a restricted circulation in the midst of an abundant supply of money.

"This then," continued Mr. Reed, "at the present moment is the situation in which we find ourselves. I have, in this narrative of the outward circumstances which have attended our present position, failed to state fully what is, after all, according to my judgment, the underlying cause of the present condition of affairs. At the last election the Democratic party was brought into power by a curious combination of circumstances, as the result of a hundred causes, not with careful and candid deliberation, but as the result, in a large measure, of the apathy of the American people. The vote shows what I declare, and the recollection of every individual to whom I am speaking can be safely appealed to. While this thing has not been specially manifest during this discussion, while there has been little talk with regard to it, nevertheless the consciousness of this fact underlies our entire situation.

"I do not intend in alluding to this fact in any way to refer to party politics. I do not undertake to raise any question as to whether the system which is a wise one or not. I do not undertake to dispute the proposition on the part of the Democratic party that protection is a tax, wicked and unjust. For the purpose of discussing and for that purpose only, I am free to admit that protection is a fraud and that virtue resides only in a revenue tariff, but remains, even if it be admitted that the propositions of the Democratic party are correct, the system which remains the fact that the system upon which the manufacturers of this country have been regulated for thirty years is threatened with a total change, whether that change is to be for the better or not no man can know.

"What the Democratic party propose to do with the tariff which is in their hands nobody can say. They do not even know themselves; and hence they are not able to impart the knowledge to others. For my part I do not expect the Democratic party to be utterly bad. I do not believe they will be permitted to be so, if they should so desire. Such is the restraining influence of the people, even after election, that I believe that through all the disguises, through all the masks which this election has thrown over the wishes of the people, nevertheless these wishes will be carried out. But at this present moment no man can know what will be the result of the action of this congress upon the manufacturers of this country.

"If the reformation of the tariff were in the hands even of its friends, if a change in the tariff were contemplated by those men who are in favor of the principle of protection, instead of in the hands of those who denounce it, I should feel entirely confident that business would be stagnant, or remain at a standstill; but when this reformation of the tariff is in the hands of men opposed to the present system, those manufacturers of the country who built upon the present system must necessarily call a halt.

"If their goods which they manufacture are to be in competition with the manufactures of other lands, where the cost of production is upon a different basis, where the labor is differently rewarded, as a matter of fact no manufacturer in this country will dare to manufacture goods which he knows will be sold upon which his labor is going into the production of his article of sale. Until that question is settled you may believe that the manufacturers of this country will never dare to manufacture more than the absolute necessities of the people require.

"I will not undertake to dwell at this present time, for I do not want to confuse the issue, upon those unfortunate parts of the Democratic program which are at present in abeyance. Like the establishment of state banks and other financial measures which we will have to struggle with, I can characterize in a single phrase the cause of the present condition of affairs. It is the undiscoverable uncertainty of the future of both the currency question and the questions of protection and revenue tariff.

"It will be seen from what I have said that I do not regard the Sherman act, as in itself alone, responsible for our present condition of affairs; that I believe that the causes of our present disaster underlie that; that the necessary stoppage of hundreds and thousands of mills all over this country is at the bottom of our disaster. Nevertheless I do believe that the Sherman act and the accumulation of silver in the treasury was the earliest intimation of the disaster which we are approaching, and that it has played a part not entirely unfortunate in warning us that we can be saved from still further ruin only by a change of policy.

"I do not believe that the Democratic congress, even influenced as it will be by the pressure on the part of the people, will so reverse the tariff that the workingmen will be brought back even to the condition of the workmen under the Walker tariff, but that there will be doubts and difficulties and reductions I have not the slightest doubt. The capitalist has met with his misfortunes. He has seen his stocks, his bonds, his holdings, and he will soon see his real estate reduced beyond any fear which he entertained a year ago, and in due time will come the reduction of the wages of labor, and by great good fortune the laboring man by demonstrations on his part should show that he understands this question in a fashion that he will refuse to allow it to be misunderstood by a member of congress."

Referring then to the new political condition which exists Mr. Reed said: "It is perfectly true that the Democratic party is responsible for whatever occurs in the future and whatever does not occur. They have been in power, they have an enormous majority in the house of representatives and they have the senate to themselves. For the first time in thirty years they have been removed from the low level criticism of the acts of others and have been lifted to the high level of responsibility and of performance. It is perfectly true that they would change their nature in a twinkling of an eye. Elections might put them into power, but only the lapse of time could give them the proper sense of responsibility.

"The time will come when the Democratic members of congress, instead of discharging a proper duty, will be disputing with each other as to what the necessities of the country demand. Until that period of responsibility shall fairly rest upon their shoulders, and also afterwards, they can rely upon the assistance of the Republican party in its minority as they have relied upon them in the majority in the direction of sound government, of responsibility and of honest administration of affairs."

"I am sorry that we have not been permitted to exhibit our wisdom in the way of amendments; that we have not been allowed to tell the people what we have to the various propositions to meet this affair which would seem satisfactory to us. We are confined to those propositions which the Democratic party have finally determined to submit to us. I shall spend no time in pointing out the contrast between this action on the part of the Democratic party and their claims during the Fifty-first congress.

"I shall waste no time in citations showing how the rights of the minority are outraged according to them, for I recognize the fact that the Democratic party have finally determined to submit to us. I shall spend no time in pointing out the contrast between this action on the part of the Democratic party and their claims during the Fifty-first congress.

finds himself powerless in his first great recommendation to his own party. Were he left to their tender mercies the country would witness the spectacle of the president of its choice overthrown by the party charged with this country's government. What wonder, then, that he appeals to the patriotism of another party whose patriotism has never been appealed to in vain?

"Never, I say, in vain. The proudest part of the proud record of the Republican party has been its steadfast devotion to the cause of sound finance. When this country was tempted to pay its bonds in depreciated money the Republican party responded with loud acclaim to that noble sentiment of Gen. Hawley that every bond was as sacred as a soldier's grave. It cost us hard fighting and sore struggle but the credit of this country has no superior in the world. When the same arguments heard today were heard fifteen years ago, sounding the praises of a depreciated currency and proclaiming the glories of fiat money, the party of Abraham Lincoln marched steadily toward specie payments and prosperity. What we were in our days of victory we are in our days of defeat, champions of true and solid finance, and when the day comes, as it surely will come, for us to lead this land back to the paths of prosperity and fame, which were trodden under Republican rule for so many years, we shall take back with us our ancient glory undimmed by adversity, our ancient honor unsullied by defeat."

The house came to a sudden and complete condition of quietude as Mr. Reed stood up and began to address the house in slow, strong, measured tones. When that part of his speech was reached which treats of threats of the Democratic party to interfere with the tariff, when Mr. Reed declared it as a fact that the chairman of the committee on ways and means did not know today what he meant for a tariff, although his predecessor probably would, the humor of the thing was instantly caught up and there were shouts of laughter on the floor and in the galleries.

Then there was applause on the Republican side when he declared that the efforts of the Democrats would be not piced out, but made whole by the patriotism of the Republican party. He was very impressive, and produced a marked impression on the audience when, in speaking of banks, he declared his belief that they were doing at this moment as thoroughly a patriotic duty as any man who has been in front of him. They were the mainstay of the country at this time.

Mr. Reed's closing words were received with a prolonged outburst of applause and his declaration that the Republican party, even in defeat, clung to its high principles of financial morality would be to make wholesale arrests among the bureau of weights and gaugers. This was practically confirmed by officials of the customs service, who make a speech in Mr. Reed's time in opposition to unconditional repeal.

A HITCH IN NEGOTIATIONS.
France Again Playing a Bulldozing Game With Siam.
LONDON, Aug. 26.—Further telegrams received today from Bangkok confirm the reports showing that a hitch has occurred in the negotiations for a settlement of the question between France and Siam.

Today's dispatches state that Siam is willing and anxious to accede promptly to the terms of the French ultimatum, but the special French envoy is trying to override the terms of the ultimatum which were presented by the Siamese government as the settlement of the dispute.

The dispatches add that four French warships have carried out a demonstration before Koh Samet, on the Gulf of Siam.

HE NEVER CAME BACK.
A Cashier Who Started to Raise Money on Collateral.

FREEPORT, Ill., Aug. 26.—G. L. Beadell, cashier of the Bank of Yellow Creek, a private institution at Pearl City, this country, left a few days ago to raise cash on collateral. He has not since been heard from and his friends are alarmed at his absence. Yesterday the bank closed its doors.

The individual responsibility of the bank is $150,000. A notice has been issued that depositors will be paid in full. Mr. Wilson, president of the bank, is one of the largest depositors in Iowa. He has not since been heard from and his friends are alarmed at his absence. Yesterday the bank closed its doors.

A GHASTLY TRAGEDY.
A Baltimore Paver Killed His Wife and Then Suicided.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26.—A ghastly double tragedy was enacted in Northeast Baltimore early this morning. George E. Reed, a paver, residing at 907 Spring alley, cut his wife's throat from ear to ear and then drew the bloody razor across his own throat.

The woman was dead when discovered lying in the gutter in front of her residence. Reed was still alive but died shortly after arriving at the hospital. Reed was intoxicated. He had been on the job for three weeks and had been on a spree most of that time. Five children survive the couple.

A Western League.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 26.—The move- ment of the Western league of baseball teams for 1891 has now taken definite shape. EXTENSIVE STEALING

Wholesale Arrests to be Made Among the Bureau of Weighers and Gaugers at New York.The Investigating Committee Has Discovered Evidence of Lax Business Methods and Possibly Systematic Fraud.Books are in Shocking Condition and Show Signs of Erasures and Manipulation of Figures.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Herald says the custom house investigating commission held an important session at the barge office yesterday which resulted in unearthing evidence of lax business methods in the surveyors' department and possibly of systematic fraud upon the part of a number of weighers and gaugers. It is said that arrests are to be made at once.

The members of the commission present were Messrs. McFarland and Dunn, Thomas H. Morrison, in charge of the bureau of weighers and gaugers was the principal witness. The differences between the actual weight of certain merchandise, as specified on manifests and invoices and as reported by weighers, were brought to his attention. The cases referred generally to Italian merchandise imported about a year and a half ago. Mr. Morrison was unable to explain the differences.

The books were brought down to the barge office where they were subject to a rigid scrutiny. The dock books used by the weighers and gaugers were found to be in a shocking condition. The commission discovered that lead pencils had been used in making entries and that there were many erasures, traces of alterations and other peculiar features. Evidence of manipulation of figures were everywhere apparent, and Commissioner McFarland said that he had not the slightest doubt that there had been extensive stealings among the employees of the department. He would not say what the commission would do but he admitted that it had determined upon a decisive course.

At the barge office and custom house, it was said the course of the commission would be to make wholesale arrests among the bureau of weights and gaugers. This was practically confirmed by officials of the customs service, who make a speech in Mr. Reed's time in opposition to unconditional repeal.

A LYNCHING IN PROSPECT.
Pursuit of a Man Who Outraged a Young Girl.

OLNEY, Ill., Aug. 26.—A mob is in pursuit of William Eckenrode, and when the man is caught there is little doubt that he will be lynched. A soldier's regiment was being held at Noble and a large crowd was in attendance, among them being Eckenrode, who was keeping company with a 12-year-old daughter of John Steffy, living four miles north of Noble.

Eckenrode induced the girl to take a ride with him in a buggy. When they had reached a small piece of timber at the edge of the town, Eckenrode jumped from the buggy, dragged the child after him and assaulted her. As soon as the crime was learned of, a mob started in pursuit of Eckenrode, who had fled. It is said that this is his second offence of this nature.

The St. Paul Robbers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Detectives today arrested three men supposed to have had a hand in the recent St. Paul bank robbery. The prisoners, who were arrested on East Fourth street, give their names as Edward Gillespie, Henry Cohn and John Tomlin. They are thought to be the men who, on Aug. 14, stole a bag containing $5000 in gold from a bank messenger in St. Paul.

"Sam'l of Poses" Acquitted.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The third trial of M. B. Curtis, the actor, charged with the murder of Police Officer Grant, ended yesterday afternoon in the acquittal of the defendant. The judge instructed that the jury might find the defendant guilty of murder in either degree or of manslaughter.

WAS SUMMONED HENCE

The Grim Destroyer's Scythe Fell Without Warning Upon Col. Edward A. McNair Last Evening.

He Was Sitting in the Zenith Restaurant and Apparently Dropped to Sleep But Never Awoke.

He Was One of Duluth's Old Residents and Leaves a Host of Warm Personal Friends.

Col. Edward A. McNair died suddenly in the Zenith restaurant shortly before 10 o'clock last night. He came into the restaurant apparently in good health and ordered supper. After he had been eating a few minutes it was noticed that he was sitting with head drooped down on his breast. Thinking he had dropped to sleep no one disturbed him for five or six minutes. Then a waiter put his hand on the colonel's shoulder and shook him gently. It was at once apparent that illness, not sleepiness was causing the lethargy.

Messengers were dispatched for physicians and Dr. O. E. Krogstad was the first to respond. An electric battery was procured and all known means of restoration tried without avail. Life was quite extinct, probably before the physician arrived.

The news of Col. McNair's death spread quickly and dozens of warm friends hastened to where he lay. By their direction the body was removed to Stewart's morgue and the relatives notified of the sad occurrence.

Col. McNair was one of Duluth's earliest settlers, coming here first in 1859. He was born near Hannibal, Mo., in 1817, and received an unusually good education for those days. Shortly after coming to Duluth he married a daughter of Gen. George B. Sargent and for a time was in partnership with his father-in-law in the real estate business.

For a time he resided at Davenport, Ia., and was a director of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway. Later he went to Texas and stayed there until the outbreak of the war. In 1879 Col. McNair went from Duluth to Leadville where he engaged with considerable success in mining operations. It was at Leadville that he made the acquaintance of Capt. Ray T. Lewis and the warm and steadfast friendship which then was formed between the two existed to the moment of the colonel's death.

After the Lewis' wife's excitement had subsided Col. McNair returned to this section of the country. Although he called Duluth his home, for the next three years he was on the road throughout the Northwest almost constantly in the interest of an agricultural implement house.

In 1885 he became general agent for the Equitable Life Insurance company at Duluth, and has since resided here; at one time he served as alderman. In December, 1886, Col. McNair formed a partnership with his warm friend Capt. Ray T. Lewis and for three years the two did a successful real estate business under the firm name of Lewis & McNair. They then dissolved and the colonel took his brother, Eugene, into partnership, a business connection that has continued ever since.

Besides Eugene there is another brother, Pierpont, living near Huron, S. D. There is one sister, Sophia, who lives with her brother, Eugene, at West Superior. The mother, Caroline P. McNair, also makes her home with Eugene. She is now nearly 90 years old and quite ill, in fact so near death's door that it is feared she could not survive the shock and the news of her son's death is being kept from her.

Col. McNair was a brother-in-law of W. C. Sargent and F. W. Paine. Mrs. McNair died eighteen years ago. She was buried in the little cemetery at New London but the body was afterward removed to Forest Hill and the remains of Col. McNair will be laid beside her.

He was in Duluth with his wife and Col. McNair. Gentle, courteous, lion-hearted, he was the friend of everyone and counted his friends by the hundreds. In business he was successful and leaves Stricken Down with Heart Disease.

Dr. Mito Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. After years of study, I feel it my duty, as well as a pleasure, to publish, unreservedly, to the world the benefit derived from Dr. Mito's Restorative Remedy. I was stricken down with Heart Disease and complicated with a rapid pulse varying from 90 to 140 beats per minute, a choking or burning sensation in the wind pipe, oppression in the chest, much pain in the region of the heart and below lower ribs, tremor, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, weakness and general debility. The arteries in my neck would throb violently, the throbbing of my heart could be heard across a large room and would shake my whole body. I was so nervous that I could not hold my hand steady. I have been under the treatment of eminent physicians, and have taken gallons of Patent Medicine without the least benefit. A friend recommended your Remedy. I was cured by Dr. Mito's Restorative Remedy. I have been three bottles of your New Heart Cure and two bottles of your Restorative Remedy. My pulse is normal, I have no more violent throbbing of the heart, I am a well man, I am able to do my work, I am able to see the world, I am able to take Dr. Mito's Restorative Remedy and be cured. A DULUTH BOY IS IN SERIOUS TROUBLE IN ST.

On complaint of representatives of the St. Paul Cycle company, 11 East Third street, and William R. Burkhardt, 320 Robert street, N. J. Fuller, a stage hand at the Comique theater, Minneapolis, was arrested in St. Paul Tuesday evening on the charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Fuller went to St. Paul from Minneapolis, and is alleged to have rented a bicycle and pawned it in a second-hand store on East Seventh street. With the proceeds he redeemed a bicycle which had been left in a Minneapolis pawn shop. The above firms, hearing of this, decided to have Fuller arrested and his case will be tried this afternoon in the police court. Fuller is 16 years old, and his parents reside in Duluth.

SHOT BY ACCIDENT.

An Affair at Two Harbors That May Result Seriously.

The Two Harbors Iron Works says that Johannes, a son of S. O. Johnson, yesterday morning accidentally shot Louis Larson's son Ernest, the ball from a No. 2 cartridge penetrating his right lung, entering the breast near the nipple. The doctors were unable to locate the ball, and complications may arise which will result seriously. Johannes was preparing to shoot a bird Ernest had shown him when the accident occurred.

man Appel, George Lucore, Tom Owens and Charles Young, of Duluth; Harry Reuter, of Chicago; James Graves, of Minneapolis; and J. S. Shiner, of St. Paul, expect to leave Sept. 2, for a trip to Isle Royale and the north shore trout stream.

It is said that the water in Serpent lake, at Deerwood, sank the other day to the lowest water mark known in years. The cause was that W. A. Foote and Paul Krietz took out so many two and one-half and three and one-half pound black bass the lake had to sink to fill up the vacant space. This party brought in one of the finest catches ever brought to town.

W. A. Foote and Jim Boyd went up to Serpent lake the day before the big storm and caught a fine lot of fish. They camped on the dam and the wind old nearly blew them into the lake in spite of the big rocks they weighted their tent with.

Dr. C. C. Salter has returned from Isle Royale greatly pleased with his trip and it is hoped that John Koss, John Johns and the other well known fishermen profited by the doctor's sojourn among them and will hereafter tell more reasonable fish stories.

A. S. Wilson, H. Wright and Ed. Hout returned yesterday from an outing at Pokegama lake, where they found the black bass in great numbers.

Frank Tibbets, the well known Brule river sportsman, was in town yesterday and brought in a three months' old fawn which he caught in the woods and sold to a Duluth party. He reports the prospects for deer hunting in the Brule river country as good as ever. Grouse are very numerous.

The Redington-Mable party who went up the range have returned much pleased with their trip.

The diffident young man had wanted to propose to the girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to get about it. He read books on the subject and sought information from men who had experience, and while the theories were admirable in every instance, he found that the practice thereof was a different thing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when her shoe became untied. She stuck out her pretty little foot with a smile, looked down at it, and he fell on his knees and tied the lace.

Then he walked on with her, and the shoe became untied again. Shoes do that with great persistence, it seems, especially these summer shoes. The third time it happened he was really, as before. "See if you can't tie a knot that will stick," she said as he worked away at it. He looked up at her tenderly.

"If I can't, I know a man who can," he said.

"Do you want him to tie it?" she asked coquettishly.

"Yes," he replied.

She jerked her foot away.

He smiled to himself.

"It's the paradox," he said, and he rose to his feet and finished the work.—Detroit Free Press.

Mistaken.

The Viscountess Sherbrooke, wife of Robert Lowe, the well known English statesman, was a woman of strong character, and she challenged criticism in that she was in the habit of saying what she came into her mind at the moment.

She had sense and courage, a heart and a head, and she bore a large part in her husband's public life.

One reporter ascribed to her shows that she was at least ready with loyalty of speech. The French ambassador one day said to her somewhat patronizingly: "You know England is said to be a land of shopkeepers. I had no idea of finding there such great military displays."

"Ah," she replied, "the people of different countries do not understand each other. Now, I have actually been under the impression that the French were a great military nation!"—Youth's Companion.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 26.—The weather continues fair in all sections, and an area of high barometer which is central over the extreme Northwest and moving this way, should promise continued fair for several days to come but there is an area of low pressure over South Dakota which may later force and cause storms before the high area can get this far south.

The temperature has risen slightly in all northern sections and remains about stationary over the southern states. The lowest reported is 65 at Fort Arthur, the highest 75 at Cincinnati and Knoxville.

Light scattered showers have fallen in all parts of the country, but not heavy enough to amount to anything in any section. The highest temperature here yesterday was 65, the lowest last night 64.

DULUTH, Aug. 26.—Local Forecast: Continued fair; slight change in temperature; east-erly winds, probably changing to south and west. Conditions are favorable to thunder storms tonight and tomorrow.

H. H. DUNSON,
Local Forecaster Official.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Forecast till 8 a.m.

Monday: For Minnesota: Warm, with southerly shifting to cooler northwest winds and fair weather. For Wisconsin: Southerly winds shifting to northerly; fair weather.

Signs of Improvement.

The commercial agency of R. G. Dun & Co. finds many encouraging features in its review of trade for the past week.

The improvement which is noted seven days ago has become more distinct and general, and while actual transactions have not increased to any large extent, the change in public feeling is noteworthy.

The scare which caused the hoarding of money and produced financial stringency throughout the country is passing away, and an era of renewed confidence is beginning. There are fewer failures either of banks or of important commercial or manufacturing concerns, than for several weeks past, and the suspensions are now more than offset by the resurrections, many of the suspended banks having reopened their doors during the week and resumed payment.

The very large arrivals of gold from England and other foreign countries has had a marked influence on the situation, and the effect of this addition to the stock of gold in this country is seen in the very satisfactory statement made by the New York banks today. Altogether there is every reason to feel encouraged over the progress that is being made towards the prosperity which the country was enjoying previous to the recent financial scare.

The certainty that congress will speedily repeal the Sherman law and thus remove the cause of the distrust, which resulted in this unfortunate state of affairs is also having a reassuring effect, and when repeal actually takes place a still greater improvement in the state of trade everywhere can be confidently expected.

As to Minnesota Point.

The Herald publishes with pleasure today a communication from one of Duluth's most energetic citizens, according to his proposal that a large portion of Minnesota Point should be reserved for a park. One feature of the question is here dealt with that was not considered by The Herald when first presenting the subject to the attention of the public. It touches the pockets of the fortunate owners of property on the Point, the assertion being made that their lots would become much more valuable if half or two-thirds of the Point were devoted to park purposes than if it were taken up by railroads, because if the Point is to be converted into railroad yards, property there will be worth less five years hence than it is now. Rice's Point is an illustration of this point.

The Herald would be pleased to hear from other citizens on this subject. It is of much importance to the city and should be thoroughly discussed. It is a matter, however, which cannot be long delayed. Every year will make it less possible to secure the necessary land for park purposes. If the railroads reach the Point before a portion has been reserved for a park, the opportunity will be lost forever. It is patent, therefore, that early action must be taken. Send in your views on the subject so that it may be thoroughly agitated.

An Englishman named William Archer is gaining some notoriety by advocating suicide. He declares that the Bible nowhere condemns it; argues that if we were in a rational state of civilization self-effacement "would no more be dreaded than a visit to the barber's and much less than a visit to the dentist's and calls for the institution of lethal chambers, which shall be scientific, so as to reduce to a minimum the physical terrors and inconveniences of suicide, both for the patient and his family and friends. Mr. Archer has certainly established his own right to leave this world by any route that he pleases to take.

Senator Hill's Speech.

David B. Hill is a shrewd and clever politician. His speech in the senate yesterday on the financial question is a fine example of his ability in this respect. It was without doubt the first step in his program for capturing the presidential nomination three years hence. While his language was well chosen and his remarks were well guarded throughout, it is plain to be seen that he will first vote for the repeal of the Sherman law and then advocate free silver, but whether the latter is to be carried on by international agreement or by this country independently he leaves enshrouded in doubt.

Shrewd and politic were his references to his own course in the past upon the silver question and to the policy pursued by the present administration. Clever indeed was his covert attack upon President Cleveland's action, for while he talked against the administration he announced his purpose to vote with it, and yet at the same time he was able to strike some effective blows at the president.

A philosophic view of the present situation is taken by the secretary of the Maine state board of trade. He says that hard times have made Maine investors chary of putting their money into outside schemes promising large returns, and so has been a substantial benefit to the state. They also lead, he says, to the withdrawal of money from the cities to the country, thus improving and extending agriculture.

The New York Recorder, in commenting upon the present season, says: "The dullness of midsummer trade is doubtless due in large measure to the superabundance that liberal advertising in July and August does not pay. Advertising, generously and judiciously done, always pays. It is a fact worth noting in this relation that the largest dry goods advertiser in America does his heaviest advertising during the summer months."

President Cleveland, having enjoyed a much needed rest, will return to Washington in time to use his influence when the vote is being taken in the house on the Wilson repeal bill. Possibly his critics, who howled because he left Washington when the debate began, will now complain that he is bulldozing congress.

Henry E. Perrine, stepfather of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, thus alluded in a recent interview to the delicate rumor that has been afloat: "Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's mother, will go East from our Buffalo home about the middle of next month to take care of Mrs. Cleveland." The ladies will now be on the quiver for news from Gray Gables.

An exchange says that a young lady in a neighboring town waved her handkerchief at a stranger, and in three days they were married. After three more days she waved a flatiron at her husband's head, and three days later he waved a divorce at her, and the knight of the quill wants to know what the wild waves are saying.

At a recent meeting of anarchists in New Jersey, the use of machinery was denounced, and it was contended all work should be done by hand. The workingman would suffer by this return to the old methods, because machinery has lightened his labor and shortened his hours of toil.

Congressman Black of Illinois, frankly says that he does not understand the situation. There are many others who have been talking a great deal in congress and whose speeches betray the same fact, but they are not honest enough to acknowledge it.

At last accounts the miners' strike in Kansas was settled, but it is hard to tell how long it will remain settled. It has been settled several times within the past week.

Duluth makes a fine showing again this week in the matter of bank clearings, as compared with other cities throughout the country.

A MINNESOTA POINT PARK.

No Place Is So Admirably Adapted For Park Purposes.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I was very much interested in your editorial on the importance of saving Minnesota Point for a park. It has always seemed to me amazing that the owners of property on Minnesota Point and citizens generally, have not made a move in that direction before. There is no place at the head of the lake that is so admirably adapted to park purposes as Minnesota Point. The summer climate of Duluth is delightful, and it is only a question of a few years when it will become a great summer resort.

Suppose Minnesota Point were parked from the lake front two-thirds of the way across the point and the balance platted into large lots extending back to the bay front, with a wide boulevard and grass plots in front where would there be a more delightful place to spend the summer? The lots would bring fancy prices, and in a few years hundreds of handsome cottages would be built. With large summer lots to accommodate non-residents, it could be made an ideal summer resort. I agree with The Herald that it should be secured for that purpose as soon as possible. If I owned property on the Point I would consider it worth five times as much if half or two-thirds of it were devoted to park purposes than if part of it were taken up by railroads. Indeed, if Minnesota Point is to be converted into railroad yards, the present value of lots will find that their lots will be worth less in five years than they are now. Take Rice's Point as an illustration. What are lots worth on Rice's Point? Why, there is, and always has been, so little demand for them that they have no market value. We doubt whether there are half a dozen real estate firms in Duluth that ever sold a single lot on Rice's Point. If Minnesota Point is devoted to railroad purposes lots will be worth even less and less salable than they are on Rice's Point, and in all probability the vacant property would be occupied by squatters who live in shacks the same as on Rice's Point.

With one-half or more of the Point parked and the balance platted into lots would bring far more than all the lots are now worth. The Herald is right. Minnesota Point should be secured for park purposes, and it ought to be secured as soon as the financial condition of the city warrants. That it would become the popular pleasure resort is proven by the fact that it is the only place about Duluth where people go camping, it is no more to be compared with what it would be if parked than the "pine-clad hills of the St. Croix" are to be compared to Central Park. The property owners ought to organize a movement at once and the park commissioners who have not done their efforts. C. E. L., Duluth, Aug. 26.

One of the Mysteries.

Two Harbors from news. Why Maj. Baldwin was looking for a place on the commerce committee instead of on the river and harbor committee caused much speculation. The major probably knew he could not get on the latter, and has recently learned the same regarding the former.

Dan Crendon After Bob Fitzsimmons.

Now that Dan Crendon, the Australian pugilist, has disposed of Alexander Greig, he is after the scalp of his fellow countryman, Bob Fitzsimmons, and a great battle for the middleweight championship of the world between Fighting Bob and Crendon will probably be one of the fistic events of the near future. Crendon has posed as a living punching bag for six years, but has never been defeated. He has beaten 13 men and fought a draw with Buffalo Costello.

Crendon is middleweight champion of Australia and holds the belt emblematic of that honor. He is a hard hitter, a burly case fighter, a scientific boxer, a clever ring general and is said to be as game as the proverbial pebble. He will need to exercise all of these qualities, however, when he faces Fitzsimmons, the long, crafty and powerful conqueror of Champion Jack Dempsey, Peter Maher and Jim Hall.

With Greig, who is two inches taller, he will face in Fitzsimmons a man who overtops him by four inches, who has an enormous reach, who is as agile as the kangaroo of his native land and whose deadly right seems to seek the point of an opponent's jaw as surely and irresistibly as a needle seeks the pole. Fitzsimmons and Crendon will probably fight for $30,000 at the Columbian Athletic club some time in December.

They were comfortably settled aboard and were really prepared for a delightful trip and did have it on the down trip.

A few days ago, however, the young man received a dispatch from the ladies informing him that the boat had laid up, that they were without money, and asking "what shall we do?" He promptly telegraphed the captain to take care of them and send the bill to him. The young man's friends think there is a joke somewhere in the episode and are laughing quite heartily.

A DANCING PARTY.

Maj. and Mrs. Upham and Miss Upham Entertained Last Evening.

Maj. and Mrs. Upham and Miss Upham gave a dancing party at their home on East Fourth street last evening and it is not too much to say that it was one of the very brilliant entertainments of the season. LET THE BABIES LIVE!

The Ignorance of Mothers Causes a Fearful Number of Deaths.

The fearful number of infant deaths this month, especially from cholera infantum, is due to the ignorance of well-meaning mothers.

Improper food is the cause of nine-tenths of all the infant mortality.

Mothers milk, when healthy and sufficient, is the ideal infant food, and it will never be surpassed.

But when in the first year of the baby's life recourse must be had to other food, or when the time comes for weaning the child, lactated food should be given in preference to anything else.

There is no mother in the land but can read the following letter with profit. It is from Mrs. C. M. Childs of Elkton, Md., the mother of the three children whose pictures appear above. It is written to the manufacturers of lactated food in Burlington, Vt.:

"This is a photograph of my three little ones. They are all subjects of the use of lactated food."

"Lactated food was recommended to me by Dr. George Gillespie of Concord, Md., six years ago, when the eldest of my babies, my present baby, was born May 10, 1892. At the end of six weeks my physician advised me to use sterilized milk. I did so for a few weeks, but she did not seem to thrive."

"She continued to grow thin and became very much emaciated. At the end of six months she weighed the same as at her birth, which was eight pounds. The doctor thought it doubtful if she survived. Without consulting him further, I resorted to the use of lactated food. I had done before with the others, procuring it from H. H. Mitchell of this town. In one week the improvement was very perceptible. At the end of two months the doctor, neighbors, and friends were amazed at the great changes in her condition."

The doctor said: "What has caused this change?"

"My reply was: 'Lactated food.'"

"He remarked: 'It is evidently the right food, although he had at times suggested another, not being as familiar with this one. As you see her in the picture, I attribute her healthy appearance to the use of lactated food.'"

Mothers who have used lactated food agree that it best supplies the materials for baby's rapid growth and development."

Lactated food is prepared with a regard for purity, cleanliness, and freedom from possibility of contagion that merits all the praise that has been so lavishly bestowed upon it by physicians and grateful mothers."

The nutritious parts of the barley, wheat, and oats are so prepared as to be easily assimilated; to these are added sugar of milk and salts, which are the basis of mother's milk. These constituents are thoroughly cooked at high temperatures, and make a predigested, palatable, nutritious food, a perfect substitute for mother's milk, for meeting every demand of the rapidly growing child."

Lactated food has tided thousands of babies this summer through the sickly hot days. It should be in the hands of every parent. As one of the greatest specialists on children's diseases has well said:

"It is worse than thoughtless for mothers who think and read to neglect lactated food, when so many mothers eagerly tell of their own accord how it has saved their babies' lives and made them strong, healthy, plump and full of life."

Lactated food can be had of any druggist. It is always pure, "keeps" perfectly, and is not affected by hyge or temperature."

PUSHING ITS CLAIM.

Pioneer Fuel Company Has Garnished the Spalding Boarders to Collect Seven Hundred Dollars.

First National Bank Has Also Been Garnished—Proceedings Commenced on a Promissory Note.

Two Suits Against the City Commenced Today—John D. Gill Also Defendant in a Suit.

The Pioneer Fuel company is suing E. P. Emerson, proprietor of the Spalding house, on a promissory note for $700, dated April 17, 1893, due in 90 days from date, on which the interest has been paid to July 23. Yesterday and this morning affidavits were filed for garnishment of the First National bank and the following boarders at the Spalding: Monroe Nichols, Julius D. Howard, John C. Robinson, Clark L. Poole, J. L. Greaser, Fielder B. Chew, Clark Fagg, Frank R. Webber.

It is intimated that the Spalding owners view these proceedings with considerable satisfaction, as they would like to have Mr. Emerson sufficiently squeezed so that he would have to give up his lease.

Sallic J. Long and Jane B. Crawford have begun suits against the city for $270 and $150 respectively for damages to their lots by reason of removing the retaining wall or bank when West Third street was improved. James W. McGregor has also begun suit against the city for $200. The note, without consideration, was endorsed by Chapman to enable Gill to borrow money thereon. Gill paid only $100 on the note. The bank sued both parties for the balance due and Chapman bought the note for $14.60. He now sues Gill for that amount.

Other papers filed in Clerk Sinclair's office today are as follows: Rosch & Kersling against Alex R. McDonald, transcript of judgment, $88.25; James Gibson against Quinby & Omeis, complaint.

Voluntary assignment of Mike Krohn, a general merchant at Ely, to W. H. Miller.

Register Taylor Does Not Like Criticisms on Assistant Commissioner Bowers.

Register Taylor this morning to a Herald reporter deplored the criticisms that are being made against Assistant Commissioner Bowers and his decision as to the rules the register and receiver shall follow in regard to making final proofs, especially in pre-emption cases. Mr. Taylor not only considers this unjust, but inclined to stir up discord, hard feeling and make serious trouble.

While not making any remarks to the effect of the administration at all, the register considers Mr. Bowers an honest and capable official and also that his late decision was wholly in accordance with the law. An honest, competent man could not have done otherwise.

The real fault Mr. Taylor thinks, is in the system. The timber and stone act should have been made applicable to Minnesota long years ago. Settlers squatted on land previous to the abolition of the pre-emption act in 1890. All those were entitled and privileged to prove under the law existing at the time of their filings. It is 1893, the timber and stone act was made applicable to Minnesota. The interests of the applicants and settlers under the two laws collide and when a settler has failed to comply with the law. The law is made to be obeyed. If a pre-emptor fails to do that and then finds his claim contested by a timber and stone applicant he stands a show of losing his land. If he has followed the requirements of the law, no contest is probable and when one is made, it must fail.

When Mr. Redington, the eminent Washington land attorney was here the other day, Mr. Taylor asked him his opinion of Assistant Commissioner Bowers. He replied that he considered that official an honest and competent man and that he was much pleased with him.

DULUTH FIFTEENING HERALD.

ELEVENTH YEAR.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 26, 1893.

HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

The Duluth Boat Club is Now in a Flourishing Condition and its Future is Bright.

It Has a Finer Headquarters and More Boats Than Any Other Northwestern Boating Club.

An Effort Will Be Made to Send Some Winning Crews to Next Year's Regatta.

The Duluth Boat Club was organized July 10, 1882. The articles of incorporation were signed by H. W. Pearson, Edward A. Gilbert, Frank B. Lazer, Fred W. Smith, James C. Hunter, James A. Boggs, Frank W. Bennett, Ben F. Myers, C. S. Eldridge, R. W. Petre and Wm. C. Sargent. The articles were witnessed by Geo. O. Nettleton and E. H. Nottelton. Geo. O. Nettleton was the man who, as notary public, witnessed the instrument with his hand and the seal of the state of Minnesota. Frank Burke, Jr., was then registrar of deeds and he certified that the articles were filed in his office July 12, 1882. Fred von Baumbach, secretary of state, did the same in his office. The Herald seems to have been the leading paper then as now, for D. G. Penny, forerunner, certified that a notice of the incorporation was first published in the above named paper July 21, 1882, and was last published August 11, 1882.

The officers during the first year of the existence of this popular club were: President, H. W. Pearson; senior vice, E. A. Gilbert; junior vice, F. B. Lazer; secretary, F. W. Smith; treasurer, J. C. Hunter; captain, J. A. Boggs; lieutenant, F. W. Bennett; ensign, B. F. Myers. Board of directors: H. W. Pearson, E. W. Smith, J. C. Hunter, J. A. Boggs, C. S. Eldridge, R. W. Petre, W. C. Sargent. The next thing was to get a clubhouse. The club then had only about twenty-five members. The erection of a building looked like a pretty large undertaking but in the end it was accomplished. The building is a fine structure, enterprise and energy and when the members said "Let a club house be built," it was accordingly done. At first the outside was put up and the interior finished off as fast as circumstances would permit. As it stands today at the head of the Northern Pacific ship, the structure represents an investment of not less than $3500. Architecturally, it is quite handsome and in arrangement is comfortable and convenient. Two of the main stories are not only sweet boats for the lounging members of the club, but add not a little to the building in the way of ornament. The top floor comes in for special use on the occasion of club dances. Ordinarily, it is used as a gymnasium and sometimes for a work shop for the racing "shells." Several superannuated racers are now lodged there. The "rym" has a number of boxing gloves, Indian clubs, dumbbells, weights, pulleys and all the necessities for assisting nature to develop muscles that can pull an oar to win.

On the second floor are five dressing-rooms for the club members. Each member also has a "locker" for his clothing, toilet articles and other necessities. The remainder of the floor is occupied by the ladies' reception room and the other by a general lounging and smoking room. There are also ladies' toilet rooms.

The lower floor, which would correspond to the basement of an ordinary building, has an open front to the water in the slip. All the boats are stored there and a platform at the front, sloping to the surface of the water, enables the many boats to be easily launched for use. Then there are the hot tubs with hot and cold water, a shower bath and water closets.

About twenty-five pleasure boats of various descriptions are the property of the club. Then there are over a dozen of private boats exclusive of canoes. There is still quite a number of paddlers' duck boats and other miscellaneous craft. The "shells" must not be forgotten, either. There are two four-oared shells, two doubles, two singles and there are rigged working boats. In all, the club house probably is headquarters for seventy-five boats.

Those who know say there is no boat-club in the Northwest that has the headquarters and boats that the Duluth club owns. The boats themselves are well worth an hour spent in examination. Many are the best made of their style; others have interesting peculiarities to those not fully versed technically in row boats; and still others have histories well worth hearing. Richardson & Day have been a sailing canoe which is among the best of its kind. They also have a little paddling canoe which is hardly large enough to carry a pigmy, whose keel has slipped through thousands of miles of water. It has been paddled all through the Rainy river country, on the Pigeon country and along the streams and across the lakes in both the iron ranges of Northern Minnesota. The four-oared crew is a white cedar Peterboro owned by J. C. Hunter. It has a natural wood finish and bird's-eye maple trimmings. Then the combination St. Lawrence river skiff must not be overlooked. It is made of the beautiful Spanish cedar and is finished in mahogany staining. It is a handsome craft and cost the handsome sum of $225. One thing of interest to enthusiasts is the "shell" in which, or, the noted name is, captured a victory during the great regatta here in 1892. The craft is now the property of George K. Pearson.

The present membership of this club is 100. The limit set in the constitution is 150. Great interest is felt and the prospects for next year and the future are never better. The four-oared crew 1894 is now thought to be settled. The members are A. A. Farrington, J. Thompson, J. D. Mahoney and Geo.

E. Gibson. The average weight of this crew is 165 pounds or more and much will be expected. H. D. Pearson, the only member of the Duluth club who ever won a medal in a race, has announced that he will row again next year—an announcement that will be received with pleasure by a great many. The four-oared crew has always used a 150 pound shell. As soon as all matters for next year are settled, a 105 pound shell will be secured.

The remarkable feature in the history of this boat club is the fact that an accident, not even the tipping over of a boat, has never been experienced. The present officers of the organization are: President, T. W. Hoopes; senior vice, J. P. Johnson; junior vice, E. C. Jones; secretary, H. White; treasurer, W. D. Lardner; captain, L. J. Hopkins; lieutenant, D. J. Mahoney; ensign, Watson Mendall; board of directors, A. G. McKimley, H. S. Mahon and H. F. Williamson. The custodian of the boat house and the all round useful, indispensable man is Ed Mahoney. He is noted for his attention to business, has a smile worth going miles to see and has held his present position ever since there was such a thing as a Duluth boat club house. During the day when possessed of a spare minute he stands on the platform by the water side and with Henry Patterson, who has a public boat house adjoining, discusses the possibility and probability of sustaining life this next winter on bean soup.

THE OUTLOOK HOPEFUL.

The Near Future Will See a Decided Improvement in Business.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Commercial Advertiser yesterday printed a broadside of opinions upon the commercial depression gathered from all over the country. Most of these opinions are from men conversant with the condition of trade in their various localities and are to the effect that the worst of the depression has been past, and the near future will see a decided improvement in all the lines of commercial and manufacturing business.

Outgoing opinions were received from the president of the Chicago board of trade, the president of the St. Louis chamber of commerce, the secretary of the Denver board of trade, the president Arnold, of the Cincinnati chamber of commerce; President Kelly, of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce; from Kansas City, New Orleans, Baltimore and Providence.

In addition there are published a large number of opinions of prominent local merchants in various lines of business. The prevailing sentiment is that business has improved in the last week and will continue to improve next week and so on. Altogether the outlook is hopeful.

STRUCK BY A HURRICANE.

A Fishing Skiff Wrecked and Five of the Crew Drowned.

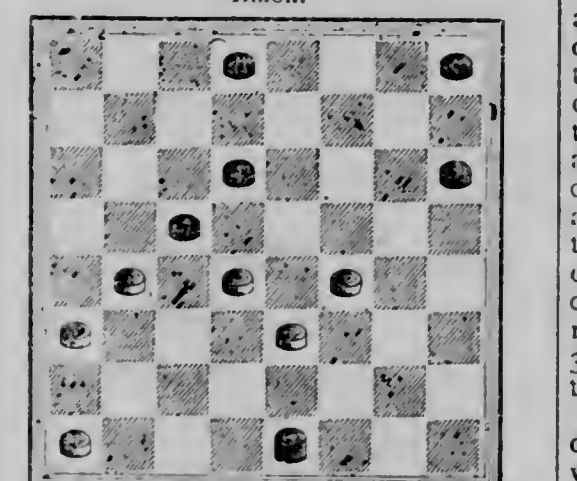

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Charles Kleisberger, of the fishing smack Malinda Wood, which was towed to her berth at Fulton Market yesterday morning, reported that on Wednesday night while the vessel was anchored about fourteen miles from Barnegat light house, she was struck by the hurricane, the vessel driven on her beam ends, the forecast carried away and five of the crew were swept overboard and drowned. Eight persons were on board.

Two of the survivors were so badly injured that they had to be removed to the hospital upon the arrival of the vessel at its pier. Kleisberger is the only member of the crew that came through unscathed. Those who lost their lives in the storm were: John Logan, first officer; John and John, able seamen; Hugo Henderson, able seaman; Arthur Johnson, able seaman; Oscar Gustafson, able seaman.

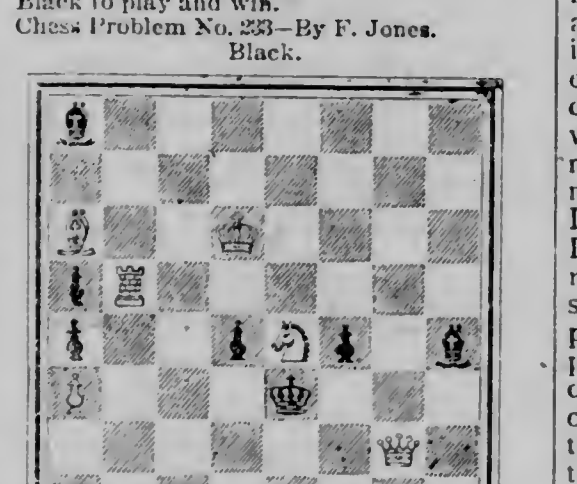

The only persons on board who were saved were Capt. P. A. Peterson, Charles Crisler, the cook, and Charles Kleisberger, seaman.

CHARMED BY DULUTH

A Pen Picture of the Zenith City Which Was Made for the People of Kansas.

Some of the Elements of Duluth's Greatness Which the World is at Last Recognizing.

Reasons Why the People of This City May Expect It to Be a Real of Chicago.

The following letter from a recent addition to the citizens of Duluth appears in the Fort Scott, Kan., Tribune and gives some of the reasons why Duluth has reached its present stage of growth and why its people have firm confidence that a great future is in store for it:

When I left Fort Scott many of my friends asked me, and I promised, to write them my impressions of this city; but now that I am settled and address myself to the performance of the task, it seems too great, and I have therefore contented to make you trustee for all and write one letter to discharge all my obligations.

It was well for the literature of humor that Proctor Knott, before pronouncing his Duluth speech, could not discern the difference between a city which is immortalized, for otherwise that speech would never have been made. The vision of the boomers was clearer than his own. They saw that what must see now, that here at the head of navigation is destined to rise perhaps the greatest of the lake cities, the mother of a hundred cities, the commercial capital of a section of country richer than any other in timber and mines, and no less rich in the products of the field.

Some of the pioneers of that day are still living here. They have seen their city go down before the panic of '73, and rise again to a commanding position. They and the stranger, too, see now, passing triumphantly and unscathed through the severest financial stress of modern times, that a failure of any magnitude has occurred, not a single banking institution has suspended. Business men are sailing close to shore, as it is said, and are not a little surprised to find that there has been no panic here, and will be none; better still, pessimists and croakers are unknown. The people feel that their times will shortly improve, and in this hope they are going about their business confident that when the sky brightens Duluth will get her share of the prosperity.

If there is anything in natural resources, and if geographical position means anything, this confidence is fully justified. No city on either side of the lake, harbor, no city anywhere in the West or Northwest has such an immense territory of necessity tributary to it and containing such varied resources. Here, not only artificial harbor or backwater is needed, for when the foundations of the earth were laid nature threw out a narrow arm of water from the side of the lake, and locked in many miles of water, sufficient and in all weathers calm enough for a thousand vessels to ride it in safety. A wide canal cut across the point, on the Minnesota side, furnishes a second entrance to the harbor. Further to the west, the city is protected by a narrow arm of water, and a second bay, or, as it is called, a second harbor, is formed by the bays and points are lined with docks, warehouses, flouring and saw mills, and other business houses, almost without number.

Figures can convey but a slight idea of the immensity of these interests. They are not to be measured in millions, first in detail and then as one wonderful whole from the heights above the town. Statistics are odious, but I cannot refrain from saying, and I am sure you will understand and infer construction have a capacity of 30,000 barrels of flour daily; that the total out of the sawmills for 1892 exceeded 35,000,000 feet of lumber; that these elevators have a present capacity of 21,000,000 bushels; that nearly 1,250,000 tons of coal were mined in the iron ranges, and that the Duluth and Superior 3,500,000 tons entered and departed from the harbor.

Duluth's chief allies among the cities of the country are in the East. The western cities are her rivals. St. Paul and Minneapolis already complain of her and fear her. It is a matter of only a little time till they will be left behind in the race for business. In this day of cheap rates suffice to make the fortunes of any town, and these Duluth has by virtue of her position on the lake. Very much of the freight of St. Paul and Minneapolis comes by water from Buffalo to Duluth; and to this the local rate from Duluth to these cities, and one will readily see how much more favorably situated the former is than her competitors. Rates southward are also comparatively in her favor—so much so, indeed, that the Twin cities are even now complaining to the federal courts that the railroads are discriminating against them.

But Duluth does not stop at this. She aspires to be a rival to Chicago. This may seem very presumptuous, but the facts to be the sheers presumption; but there is warrant for the ambition. Briefly stated, Chicago owes her prominence to her position on the lakes and the fact that she is in the heart of the producing West. She has no natural resources in the way of coal, iron or lumber. Most of the former gets paid through by boat. The latter comes from far away. Now, Duluth has inexhaustible beds of iron and forests of pine within a hundred miles of her. For coal she too depends on the Eastern supply, and the distance by water to Buffalo is no greater than from Chicago to that point. Indeed, water rates eastward from here are cheaper than from Chicago, for vessel owners realize that by bringing coal for merchandise to Duluth they are sure of a load of iron, grain or timber on the return trip. Eventually, as the interest develops, a great part of the product will be made up here into stoves, foundings, machinery, and all the other articles composed of that metal and its results, for it is an admitted fact that it is cheaper to bring fuel to the man than to take the iron to the fuel.

The geographical position of Duluth is, in fact, a beautiful and modern city, full of courtesies and ambitious people, who are determined that their own shall rule the trade of the North-west. Even if geographical position and natural advantages counted for nothing, the push and arduous of these people would make Duluth great; but these three elements together will be irresistible. I have been over the ground thoroughly, studied the question from every point of view, and my conclusion is that to the list of the world's industrial cities which have astonished the nations by their growth will be added, within less than half a generation, the name of Duluth.

DONE WITH BENEFITS

Rev. C. C. Salter Says That No More Will Be Given in the Bethel's Interest.

At Present He is Pushing His Scheme To Have a Restaurant for the Working People.

He Believes This Would Provide Sufficiently Cheap Living for the Poor in Hard Times.

There will be no more grand benefit entertainments to aid the Bethel. They are a burden on the people generally who dislike to refuse to buy tickets; they are particularly burdensome on those who give the time and labor necessary for the production. Sometimes there is money made and that too when the money comes very handy, but after all a large percentage of the receipts goes out of town with the parties who project and arrange the show so that the beneficiary doing right well if it gets 15 cents of the dollar paid for a ticket. So Mr. Salter has resolved that there shall be no more National Payments or kindred spectacles. If the Bethel cannot be supported by the people, then the Bethel must fail. It is not likely that an institution doing so much real good will be allowed to topple over for the lack of funds so long as there remains a grain of charity and patriotism in the hearts of the people.

And the Bethel needs money right now—needs it for a practical purpose that will at once commend itself to practical men in pushing an important cause. That there shall be no more National Payments or kindred spectacles. If the Bethel cannot be supported by the people, then the Bethel must fail. It is not likely that an institution doing so much real good will be allowed to topple over for the lack of funds so long as there remains a grain of charity and patriotism in the hearts of the people.

This great mirror is mounted at one end of the big drum, the outer end of which is furnished with a door consisting of a metal ring in which are fixed a number of plate glass strips (two or three inches wide) which can be raised or lowered by means of a screw. The mirror is placed at the center, and the total weight is about 800 lbs. The metal ring in which the mirror is placed is about 750 lbs., and the total lens, ring and cover weigh about 1500 lbs.

The maximum current at which this lamp operates is 200 amperes, and at this current the lamp has a luminous intensity of about 90,000 to 100,000 candles, the reflected beam a total luminous intensity of about 375,000 candles, an intensity which the eye cannot appreciate. In looking at the side of the beam the spectator only distinguishes a stream of light of comparatively low intensity, but in looking at the beam directly its brilliancy is fully seen and the effect is absolutely blinding.

The projector was sent to the World's fair, a public test was made at Middletown, Conn. From the roof of the works the great white beam of light shot forth into the obscurity of the night, and slowly swept the countryside for miles around, bringing every object upon which it was directed into brilliant and distinct relief. It illuminated the roofs of distant villages and scared the birds in the air, and the sign boards miles away, so that they could easily be read by means of a glass. The projector was turned upward towards the sky, and the beam, like a super-natural divine finger, wrote words upon the clouds—messages of light to the stars.

It was observed that the space within the beam was violently agitated, and closer observation revealed the fact that millions of moths and minute insects were hovering in it, attracted by the brilliancy of the light. Next morning the beams of dead moths, beetles, other insects and some small birds, were swept up from the roof on which the projector stood. They had been killed by the intensity of the light.

How far the powerful beam of light of this instrument can be seen is difficult to state. The search light set up by the General Electric company on Mt. Washington in the White Mountains, has a diameter of only thirty inches, and a reflected light from the mirror of about 100,000 candle power, yet the newspaper can be read in its beam ten miles away, and the light can be seen from points 100 miles away. How much farther then could this 375,000 candle power light be seen in a clear atmosphere free from moisture, if the projector could be mounted upon an eminence sufficiently high to clear all surrounding obstacles?

Our Rapid Transitory Existence is brief enough without our shortening it by seeking medical aid, when we are somewhat unwell, from sources where it is only obtainable with great risk. Even if the old doctrine were true that violent diseases require violent remedies, it does not follow that drastic purgatives, emetics, powerful "sedatives," or the nervous system are advisable in cases where slight disorders manifestly call for the use of milder means of recovering, involving no subsequent danger, but equally efficient. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters not only relieves, but ultimately cures, and completely restores the stomach, liver, bowels and nerves. It is a genuine tonic, healthfully stimulates the kidneys, is a thorough alterative, and a most effective preventive of chills and fever and bilious remittent. The utmost confidence can be reposed in the purity and safety of its medicinal ingredients.

George W. Stevens. These gentlemen have considered the matter and are unanimous for the restaurant. They have not decided on any plan for raising the money. As a matter of economy to the project, the long run the restaurant should be had. It has been suggested that the city might do something, but that is perhaps hardly practicable at the time. By a good deal of hustling the money might be raised by popular subscription in small amounts, but the directors do not want to try that plan at present.

If four men would come forward with $500 each, another generous quartet with $250 and ten more with $100 apiece, the project of instituting the Bethel restaurant could be borne gracefully by eighteen citizens. Are there not philanthropists enough and to spare in Duluth to raise $4000? Mr. Salter firmly believes so and is waiting patiently for generosity to get the upper hand of modesty and loosen the purse strings.

Those who are willing to help Mr. Salter reach spiritual man through his stomach are earnestly invited to step forward. If the general pastor himself happens not to be the Bethel to welcome you with his cheering smile, one of his lieutenants will be and the money will not be diverted into wrong channels, that is certain.

IMMENSE SEARCH LIGHT.

It is Claimed to be the Largest in the World.

To America belongs the honor of constructing the largest and most powerful electric search light in the world, now being set up at the World's fair. It stands about to feet 6 inches high to the upper side of the ventilator on the top of the drum, and the total weight is about 6000 pounds, but so perfectly is it constructed and balanced that a child can move it in any direction. It was built by the General Electric company.

The reflecting lens mirror used in this projector is 150 centimeters, or 60 inches in diameter. It is a concave spherical mirror of the Mangin type, free from spherical aberration, reflecting a scintillating parallel beam of light. It was manufactured especially for this projector in Paris, France, and is a most perfect specimen of optical work. It is 35 inches thick at the edges and 1-16 of an inch thick at the center, and weighs about 800 lbs. The metal ring in which the mirror is placed weighs about 750 lbs., and the total lens, ring and cover weigh about 1500 lbs.

BILL THE BICYCLIST

Nye's Experience Off and On With a Pneumatic Tire Which Has Made Him Very Weary.

He Also Mows the Lawn in the Early Morning and Acquires Another Tired Feeling.

The Famous Ride of Riley and Reed—Nye's Latest Poem Addressed to His Farm.

(Copyright, 1893, by Edgar W. Nye.)
For a long time I would not be argued into getting a bicycle, for it is no argument to my time of life. It is not dignified for a man who has chattered with crowned heads to hump his back and claw into the air with both feet and scoot across the horizon with wild eyes and a distorted mouth like that of one who has tried to eat with a souvenir spoon to excess.

"No," I said, "I was born too far back to pick this up. I can never ride the wheel in public successfully." I tried one of the tall kind once, because it looked so graceful, and it not only threw me in such a way as to drive my spectators up my nose quite a long distance, but it followed me up and stepped on me and lay down on me and got one of its cold, hard treadles in the back of my bicycling jacket, where my lunch was.

But with a pneumatic tire and a low wheel there is less danger of shortening the spine and flailing vertebrae in your shoes when you undertake at night. The pneumatic tire is blown full of air, being a tight rubber tube encircling the wheel. Riding on air that way is great sport, especially to the witness. It is like running a lawn mower.

I have a large colored gent who exerts himself for me at a reasonable price, and I saw him from my study pushing the lawn mower one bright June morning till I could not stand it any longer. He pushed it from him as he would a watermelon. It was so easy. He kept singing something about like this:

Shall I be called when de great day come,
Or shall I hide my head in shame?
Shall I line de levee dar wall and gum Car Dennis is my Christian name?

And the green grass rolled like a fragrant catarrh over the machine. I couldn't write because the sputter and buzz of that lawn mower and the hymn, or whatever it was, kept working me to the window, and I couldn't get two ideas together to save my reputation. Finally I gave up my job and went outside. He looked even easier out there than it did from the house.

"You may go down to the garden, Alcibiades," I said, "and weed the succotash pines awhile. I will finish mowing the lawn."

I took off my rich dressing gown and hung it up on the doorknob, took off my reversible cuffs and put them on the tail of a beautiful, ornamental iron dog which stands on the lawn, and started in.

But why go on? Every man with a soft muscle or two has tried these things to get up a glow. I did not do anything more or less than other men have done who need exercise and gorge themselves with it in an hour so that they can't bear the sight of it any more forever.

I mowed a place as big as this morning's paper. I think a small rosette and a rubber doll, when I began to see that the sun was rapidly removing the shade from the lawn and putting it over on the north side of the house.

I mowed down the old rusty arches of a forgotten croquet set and got mud eight times and started a tumor at the place where I rested the handle of the mower against my person. The hotter I got the less I knew. I aimed at first to stay cool with the machine awhile and quit, but as I went on and overhauled my judgment I mowed down a bed of mugwort and some tuberoses that were just beginning to bear.

I would have mowed down a trainload of fresh air fund children if they had come my way, but that's nothing. Anybody would do that if they had ever met a fresh air fund outfit alone on the road.

Well, that's the same way I rode the bicycle, only I concealed myself while practicing. Then I went at it on rainy days. It was in the barn. I enjoyed it some, though at times I knocked the rafters a hole in to one side with my head. I soon learned, too, to carry in one hand a heavy club with which to knock over the machine whenever it hopped on me while I was down.

Next I learned how to repair my wheel if the pneumatic tire got punctured and let the climate out. You carry a little bit of things, gum and things, also a plumber's furnace by a strap over your shoulder, with your vest pocket full of charcoal, and then when your pneumatic tire gets a hole in it and looks like a pink tight in the hands of the sheriff you get off the wheel at the roadside and the children of the district school come and stand by your side while you fix it.

I am not of a mechanical turn of mind.

and so I could not find the hole where the air had escaped when I broke down. When you puncture your tire, you blow into the valve, and then, if you look soon enough, you will deftly discover the air in the act of escaping. Then you heat a piece of pneumatic felt and solder it on as soon as possible.

I did not realize till I was 11 miles from home, at the bottom of a five mile hill in a bed of sand and "hit a-raining," how hard it was to find a pinhole in a rubber tire by watching for the place where the steam temperature is escaping.

As night came on and the children had to separate and go their several ways toward home I gave up the idea of repairs, carefully concealed the machine in a swamp and rode home on the running gear of a farmer's wagon, on which I sadly pitched myself several times, which hurt me exceedingly.

Did you ever ride on the "reach," or the "holster," or the "hounds" of a lumber wagon seven or eight miles in the moonlight heat with your feet hanging down and gouging large holes in the road? It is equal to a straw ride among asylum acquaintances.

Referring to rides and vehicles, I am reminded of the christ tree in "Ben-Hur." Everybody remembers his wonderful picture and wishes that he had been first to write it. Every one calls to mind the speech of Ben-Hur to his steeds as they flew around the course; how he kept his temper even when Messala gave the Jew's beautiful horses a cut as he passed them, with his "Down, Eros! Up, Mars!" But when the moment, the supreme moment, arrived, Ben-Hur, when all else was silent, addressed his horses:

"On, Atair! On, Rigel! What, Antares, dost thou linger now, good horse? Oh, Aldebaran! I hear them singing in the tents. I hear the children singing and the women singing of the stars of Atair, Antares, Rigel, Aldebaran, Victory, and the song will never end. Well done! Home tomorrow under the black tent—home. On, Antares! The tribe is waiting for us, and the master is waiting! 'Tis done! 'Tis done! Ha, ha! Steady. The work is done." Soho. Steady!"

Rev. Myron W. Reed and James Whitcomb Riley one afternoon about the time of the publication of "Ben-Hur" went out to dine with George Hitt of The Journal at Indianapolis and came home in the evening full of "Ben-Hur." They took a surface car drawn by a pair of mule eaten mules. It was quite a ride from Hitt's chateau to the Demmon House, and so, as the car was unoccupied except by two colored ladies named Trask, who lived across the track—Eloise and Pearl Trask—they talked freely.

Shortly after these two gentlemen got on the car stopped, and the driver went back to set a switch or recover his whip, but soon it moved on in the darkness, gaining speed as the grade seemed gently descending, till directly the Misses Trask began to giggle and look sort of apprehensively toward the front of the car. Mr. Reed looked, too, and discovered that there was no driver. Moreover, the mules were running away.

The pastor made about two strides of eight feet each and found himself at the dashboard of the car, the lines dragging along the track and the driver a mile back looking for his whip.

The Misses Trask screamed as the car now and then returned to the track with a cruel shock, and Mr. Riley, extending his head through a ventilator at the top of the car, exclaimed "Help! help!" twice in rapid succession.

Mr. Reed, holding his hat on with one hand, reached twice for the lines beneath the car, and twice the off mule most put the pastor's eye out with its impressionist tail. At last Mr. Reed succeeded, and scolding the brake he slapped the right mule across the person with the lines, and waving his broad hat in the air he cried:

"On, Atair! On, Rigel! What, Antares, dost thou linger now, good mule? Oh, Aldebaran! I hear them singing in the tents. I hear the children singing and the women singing of the stars of Atair, Antares, Rigel, Aldebaran, victory, and the song will never end."

As the car passed the corner near where The Journal office was Mr. Reed again extended his head through a new place in the roof which he had made with his silk hat and ejaculated hurriedly: "Help! Help! Help! Will no one derail the car and save us?"

Mr. Reed's cry was drowned by the roar of the car and the remarks of Mr. Reed as he slapped the off mule with his slonch hat and exclaimed:

"Well done! Home tomorrow under the black tent—home! On, Antares! On, Aldebaran!"

It was a grand sight.

A MORNING MOW.

I think they went past the car stables eight times, and it is said that those smart mules never ran away any more since that. You can leave them standing at a crossing now while you go away to Siberia, and when you come back they will be there.

Below I give a poem addressed to my farm during the late dry spell which visited our place:

MIDSUMMER ON MY PLACE AT A GIVEN POINT, AND LOOKING TOWARD POXAN MOUNTAIN BETWEEN THE STANZAS.

Oh, the sweet potato's swelling on my upright farm.

any one who has seen the hole where the air had escaped when I broke down, and kept Elias with his strong right arm. Scoops the moonshine maker up a tree.

Oh, the sun shines hot on my blue grass lawn, And the mule goes on mightily sad. For my upright farm is a dark verdant red, And the eating clay is looking mighty bad.

For my lawn is as red as the Sandy Bottom road, And the peach buds open on the bough, And my long parched well at the back of my shade Wants a cold, damp towel on its brow.

It never was so droughty since prior to the war, When the apples got so working on the tree, And it puzzled you all to know what they was for. Except a guilty death to you and me.

But the lanks may last 'n do the money centers harm, I reck not a low neck claim, For I am content on my upright farm, And that's why I seem like I am.

"Then was the figgers," responded Ezra solemnly.

"An there wa'n't no crowd, even then?" asked Uncle Tobias, after a pause.

"No crowd anywhers," said Ezra.

There was a long silence, broken only by the rustling of the newspaper in Ezra's hand as the breeze flew in at the window.

"Well," said Uncle Tobias at last, "I ain't prepared to doubt the papers, an' I know they've got a powerful lot of hand set apart for that show, but it does appear to me that if I'd ben on hand along with them 240,000 folks I sh'd have calculated that there'd be here an there a ma'n—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 27.
Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Continual witnessing. Acts xxvi, 22. Ps. xxiv, 1-4.
Less than a year ago, Oct. 23, 1892, we had for our topic, "Witnessing For Christ." The topic at that time was general, embracing all the phases of Christianity as witnesses for Christ and His gospel. The topic before us, however, is limited to one phase of the subject—namely, continual witnessing. In the illustrative references we have set forth several profitable characteristics of continual witnessing.

1. How may we continually witness for Christ (Acts xxvi, 22)? Paul attributes his ability to God. "By God's help" he says he has been enabled to stand and witness continually for Christ. God is the true source of constant witnessing. He prolongs our lives. He fills us with the proper disposition. He surrounds us with the necessary opportunities. It is therefore expedient for us to pray to our Father that He will bless us with all these necessary qualifications.

2. What are we to continually witness (Acts xxvi, 22)? Again Paul may be our model, for he witnessed "none other things than those which the prophets and Moses said should come to pass." Paul limited his witnessing to divine truths, as God had revealed them through His inspired prophets. We should limit our testimonies to the same. That which has no sanction in the divine word should form no part of our witnessing. It is not tradition and men's opinion that will affect men, but divine facts and truths. The Bible should be the source of our instruction and our facts, and our witnessing will then be effective; otherwise it will not.

3. To whom should we continually witness (Acts xxvi, 22)? Paul witnessed continually to all—small and great. To all men we should be constant witnesses. The rich are not to be shunned because of their riches, or the poor because of their poverty, the wicked because of the opposition to divine truths, or the indifferent because they may mock the sacred things of God. To all men everywhere we are to faithfully bear witness for Christ, with the object in view of leading them to Him as their Savior.

4. Why should we witness continually (Ps. xxiv, 1-4)? In this passage we have an outburst of the psalmist in praise to God. "I will bless the Lord at all times. His praise shall continually be in my mouth." So it should be with all. Why? Because God's mercies and blessings to us are continuous hourly and daily. Therefore we should witness to His goodness at all times.

One Australian Society.

From the very tasteful little leaflet containing the "Second Annual Review" of the Devon Street Baptist society of Ballarat, Victoria, we glean the following notes of interest: Of the membership all but six are church members, 16 having been baptized this year. The contributions have nearly doubled this year. Three regular cottage meetings and a weekly service at the reformatory have been carried on by the lookout committee, help also having been rendered a gospel mission and a Chinese mission. The tract and visiting committee has 23 members engaged in the work who visit 490 homes weekly. Twenty-six parcels of clothing and large quantities of provisions have been distributed by this committee.

The missionary committee provides for the entire support of a missionary in India. The Sunday school missionary of the society has brought 30 children into the Sunday school, and much other more or less unreportable work has been faithfully done by these model Endeavorers. This "review" also contains warm commendation of the society by both the pastor, Rev. Thomas Porter, and the Sunday school superintendent.

Pleasant Words For Endeavorers.

Such a tour of the world as Dr. Clark has made is a memorable and cheering sign of the times. It is one of a thousand proofs that there are no foreign lands and that there can be no more hermit nations. The world hereafter must be healed or poisoned very much as a whole. Let us rejoice in the assurance that Dr. Clark's work in the Y. P. S. C. E. is helping in a priceless way to heal the world. He has nowhere taught any erratic or perverse doctrine, but has borne faithful witness to the organizing and redemptive truths and institutions of a scholarly and evangelical faith and life. After their prolonged fatigue and perils of travel, let us welcome home Dr. and Mrs. Clark not merely as Americans, but as crowned cosmopolitans of Christian Endeavor. God grant that the hands of the young Christians of all nations may be so locked together around the altar as to draw the whole world into His bosom and make the sound of His heart beats the marching song of all the ages.—Rev. Joseph Cook.

Missionary Items.

In some of the district congregations in India the native Christians close their services with three words that mean, "Victory to the Lord Jesus."

Over 200 African converts in Uganda and the regions about have suffered death rather than give up their faith in Christ.

It is said that if the United States were supplied with ministers in the same proportion that the heathen world is with missionaries there would be altogether about 25, about two-thirds as many as there are now in Boston alone.

Nine casks of missionary arrowroot have been sent to Edinburgh this year from Ameyann, New Hebrides, and three from Fortuna. The latter is a contribution from the native Christians to help pay the native teachers and to build the first church in Fortuna.

THE EVENING HERALD,
Duluth, Minn.

HIS OPENING SERMON

Elder W. T. Hacker, the New Pastor, Occupied the First Christian Church Pulpit.

Brief Sketch of His Life and Field of Work Before His Coming to Duluth.

Abstract of His Sermon Which Was on the Subject of the Resurrection of the Body.

The flock of the First Christian church is no longer shepherdless. Elder W. T. Hacker recently accepted a call to minister unto this congregation and yesterday he delivered his first sermon in the little church on the corner of Fourth street and Fifth avenue west.

The newly called pastor of this Duluth church is about 40 years of age. He is a graduate of Hartsville university in Indiana, and to more thoroughly fit himself for the ministry of the Word he entered the Bible department of Butler university, located at Irvington, a suburb of Indianapolis. Before engaging actively in the ministry, he served for ten years as official court stenographer for the Fifth judicial district of Indiana, a suburb of Indianapolis. Before engaging actively in the ministry, he served for ten years as official court stenographer for the Fifth judicial district of Indiana, a suburb of Indianapolis.

After the celebration of the sacrament of the Lord's supper and the singing of the hymn, "Far and near the fields are coming with the ways of ripened grain come the sermon." For his theme, Elder Hacker took "The Resurrection of the Body."

"The turning point in the preaching of the apostles was the resurrection, which will take for my theme. In olden times the monarchs were welcomed into the city by a triumphal procession and they were accorded a savage sort of reception by the populace. They made a triumphal entry into a city in a chariot drawn by many richly caparisoned horses, surrounded by their butchering henchmen, and dragging behind them, in the gallies, numbers of the conquered. If you will, with the triumphal entrance of the Savior into Jerusalem, surrounded by a concourse of his disciples, who laid in his pathway branches and spread their robes before him for a carpet, he was welcomed in shouts of Hosanna and Hosanna. Yet, in the midst of all this glory, the Savior knew this would be his entry into Jerusalem. That before he again left the city the dreadful tragedy of the crucifixion would be enacted. Amid the gathering shades of evening he wended his way up the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives to the home of Mary, about this time the chief priests sought to destroy him. Placing their hands together, they concocted many plots, the object of which was to trap the Savior into making statements which might be construed to be offensive to the Jews or to the Roman government, and which, in either case, might be used as a pretext to destroy him.

"The scribes, who were pretending to be religious, were only seeking a way in which they might betray him. They are hypocrites. At this time the fact that they were going to kill him, the mind of the Savior was not troubled. He was not entertained a thought of them with abhorrence. They asked all sorts of questions in order to catch him in a trap, but the meek and lowly Savior cast them aside and outwitted them at every turn. They propounded to him a financial problem in order to get him to say something to stir up the Roman government. But the Savior, who made the truth and all the precious metals in the mines was so poor that he had to borrow a penny in order to use it as an illustration to his answer. Referring to the superscription upon the coin, he said: 'The image of the emperor, Caesar, is stamped upon the coin, but the image of God is stamped upon the man. He who is the image of God is not to be worshipped as the image of Caesar and unto the Lord the things which are due to the Lord.'

"Then the Sadducees, the agnostics of old days, tried to tangle Christ in a philosophical problem—that of the resurrection of the body. The Sadducees, a sect, are said to have denied the resurrection of the body and soul of man. He agnostic of today will take for example the railway accident, in which the ashes of the body of the sweet singer, P. Bliss, mingled with the ashes of a burning car, and floated away on the waters of the river. The say, 'Can it be possible for those particles again to be resurrected in the judgment day?'

"The Sadducees, when they asked the question whose wife would be a woman be in the resurrection, who had married seven brothers, asked that question on the assumption that flesh and blood would inherit the kingdom of heaven, and that the same sexual and carnal distinctions which obtain in this world would exist there, which assumption is false. How did the Savior answer them? He said that God was not God of the dead but of the living. He is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

"If He is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, they, consequently, must be living, resurrected. And if they are, it is safe to conclude that hosts and hosts of people who had died before Christ made that assertion were in the same state as were Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. So, if the Sadducees believed their own scriptures they were compelled to believe in a resurrection."

AMUSEMENTS.

E. S. Willard.

Tonight E. S. Willard appears at the Temple in his great play, "The Middleman." This was presented by him in Duluth last year. William Winter, probably the greatest dramatic critic of this country, in his little volume "Shadows of the Stage," says of Willard in "The Middleman":

"The drama of 'The Middleman' Willard had impersonated an inventor, of the absorbed, enthusiastic, self-regarding, fanatical kind. Willard's present, of the gaunt, attenuated figure of Cyrus Blackman—hollow-eyed, half-frantic, hysterical with grief and joy—was the complete incarnation of a dramatic figure, and this, being sympathetic and moving to goodness and not to evil, captured the heart. It was a magnificent exhibition, not alone of the physical power, so that the superhuman might gradually increase in strength, was one of the best merits of his art."

Tomorrow night Mr. Willard presents "The Professor's Love Story."

Miss Kiddie's Entertainment.

Miss Amanda Kiddie will give an entertainment at the First Methodist Episcopal church tomorrow evening, assisted by several local people. Miss Kiddie is an impersonator and dramatic reader and is highly recommended. The program will be as follows:

BALDWIN AND CRISP.

How the Major Lost the Rivers and Harbors Committee.

Washington correspondence of Pioneer Press: The treatment which was accorded to Representative Baldwin is one of the surprises of the session. Baldwin came down here during the last part of the former congress and made acquaintance everywhere. He showed his zeal in the matter of legislation and desired to do something, not only for his own district, but was willing to serve the country at large. Geographically, Maj. Baldwin was in the right place to secure a place on rivers and harbors, and it is even now he said that he hurt his prospects for getting that committee by being a candidate for that place first and afterwards switching to the committee on commerce long after every person had made application for committee places.

Representative Fletcher had already asked for the place on commerce and had lost it. It is also possible that the Italian hand of some of Minnesota's boss Democrats may have been at work to throw Baldwin down. He has met the obstacles which all others who kick against the bosses generally meet.

It is generally understood that Commissioner Lochren has considerable to do in the making up of the committee on rivers and harbors. VERY MUCH DIVORCED Louisa Yanke is Only Twenty-Six Years Old But Got Her Second Divorce Today.

She Now Assumes the Name of Wegner, That Borne by Her First Matrimonial Partner.

Policeman Olson is Defendant in an Action for Damages Begun by Anna Morrison.

Judge Lewis is handling the special term calendar alone today and has pretty near an all day's job before him. One divorce was granted—to Louisa Yanke from Otto Yanke. Louisa is only 26 years old, but she has had matrimonial experience sufficient for an ordinary lifetime. Yanke is not her first venture. Before him came one Wegner, who was the father of her three children. From Wegner she got a divorce in due form and last November married Yanke. Her new husband was cruel and beat her. June 2 he pleaded guilty in the municipal court to assaulting her. Besides Louisa claims he is a confirmed drunkard and has been for years, although he was clever enough to conceal this fact from her before marriage and in fact led her to believe that he never touched intoxicants.

Louisa owns a homestead in Portland division and Yanke is restrained from disturbing her in the possession thereof. By the decree the plaintiff takes, according to her wish, the name of her first divorced husband and walked out of court this morning as Louisa Wegner, and for the third time on earth free from all marital ties.

Judge Lewis disposed of other matters as follows:

In the matter of the assignment of Waldorf, Dunsmore & Co., final account of assignment allowed and order of discharge made.

C. R. Lantz, for the use of Mary Miller, against Herman E. Long, submitted.

J. S. Jenter against Great Western Watch company, of Indianapolis, Neb., judgment for plaintiff.

Alex J. McCae et al. against Edward Kennedy et al., submitted.

George H. Crosby against A. E. Humphreys, order setting aside judgment to enable defendant to submit motion for new trial.

Charles A. Chase against Moses Stewart, Jr., order granted to furnish copy of deed.

Minnesota Packing company against Milton A. Dougherty et al., judgment for plaintiff.

SEVERAL NEW SUITS.

One for Slander and One for False Imprisonment.

Emma Gaard has begun suit in district court against Margaret Jennings for slander, placing her damages at $5000. It is charged in the complaint that the defendant used the following language with reference to the plaintiff: "She is a thief," "she stole the glass from the door and I don't know what else," "I am going to have her arrested."

Anna Morrison has commenced suit against Lever Olson, a police officer, for imprisonment. It is charged that on June 5 last defendant came to plaintiff's residence, 101 West Michigan street, and arrested her "for a delicate state of health." Plaintiff was confined to her residence and retained her at the city lockup for two hours. At the time plaintiff was alleged to be in a delicate state of health, a fact which was made known to defendant. Plaintiff was confined to her bed for 25 days thereafter and suffered greatly in mind and body, for which she asks $5000 as damages besides $25 for medical attendance.

In the suit of Pioneer Fuel company against E. P. Emerson another affidavit for garnishment was filed this morning setting forth J. H. Upham is indebted to defendant.

Gabriel W. Becker has commenced suit against Wolf, Dreyfus & Co. for $100,000 on a promissory note.

Bankers Not in It.
The lawyers and bankers played ball—or rather the former did and the latter did not—at Woodland on Saturday. C. S. Davis pitched and Martin Watrous caught for the lawyers while Chapman and Burbank made the battery for the bankers. Davis curves were too much for the financiers and they went down being 30 to 1.

WANTED IT POSTPONED

The Missabe Railroad Suggested to the Committee That the Proposed Celebration be Postponed.

The Committee on Saturday Evening Concluded to Go Ahead With It, Anyway, as Planned.

The Road is Not Prepared to Join in at Present and Wished to Wait While.

The advisability of postponing the Missabe celebration has been suggested by a number of people lately and it has been said that the railroad people would be glad to see it declared off for the present. This now seems to be true. On Saturday last the directors of the road met and adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, it has been brought officially to the attention of this board that a committee of distinguished citizens has been appointed to make arrangements for a public parade and celebration on the 14th day of September for the purpose of commemorating the completion of the line of railway of this company into the city of Duluth and the creation of its ore docks, in connection with the observance of 'Labor day' and

Whereas, this board is deeply sensible of the interest taken in the work of this company and highly appreciates the complimentary spirit of the proposed undertaking:

Therefore be it resolved, That this board hereby declines to the committee and to those whom they represent, the thanks of this company for the association of its name with the celebration, but would respectfully suggest to the committee that such celebration be postponed for the present, in view of the fact that the road and docks are not yet fully completed. For this reason the company is not in a position to take such a part in the celebration as it wishes to do upon the full completion of its plans, and the friendly interest of this community would justify. At a later date, when the work is finished, and when the people of other cities who are now oppressed by the general financial stringency, and our neighbors on the Mesaba range, who so recently have suffered from disastrous forest fires, can join Duluth in celebrating the completion of this latest evidence of the enterprise of her citizens, this company will be glad to take its full part in any proposed celebration, and to recognize as far as is in its power the loyal support and confidence of the people of this community which has been displayed on so many occasions, and furthermore

Be it resolved, that the secretary transmit a copy of this resolution to the committee.

Accordingly this resolution was sent to the committee and a meeting was held on Saturday evening. The suggestion of the directors of the road that the celebration be postponed was not concurred in, but it was decided to go ahead with it as planned.

Had the celebration taken place at a time when the road was prepared for and desired it, it was prepared to lend its aid and to go to considerable trouble and expense in making it a success, but it is now this celebration will be one not contented by the road.

THE NEW HOSPITAL.
Articles of Incorporation Filed With Register Sheehar Today.

Articles of incorporation were today filed with the register of deeds of the Protestant Hospital association of Duluth. The capital stock is $150,000 divided into 15,000 shares of $10 each. The limit of liability is $50,000. The object is to construct, equip and operate in Duluth a hospital; for care of the sick to receive compensation where feasible, or otherwise to do the same without charge.

"The terms of admission to membership," the articles provide, "shall be the ownership of stock therein and the profession of a protestant religious form of belief, but no dues or fees shall be required other than voluntary contributions."

The articles were executed April 6 but are just put upon record. There are twenty-eight incorporators. The first three for one year, the second three for two years and the third three for three years—as follows: Lewis A. Larson, Charles W. Erickson, Wm. Harwood, George T. Tiedt, Marcus J. Davis, Charles W. Wilson, James O. Milne, Anton Rutsred and Thomas Olafson.

A Suburban Wedding.
On Saturday last a happy company of neighbors and friends met at the residence of Joel Colby, of Colbyville, to celebrate the marriage of Miss Lu G. Colby and Edwin W. Moore, of Bingham, Me. Among the crowd guests were the pupils of the Colbyville school, of which the bride has been a favorite teacher for two years. Mr. and Mrs. Moore leave on Thursday for the World's fair and after a visit at Washington, Philadelphia and New York will make their home at Bingham, Me.

Notice.
Notice is hereby given, that in accordance with a resolution passed by the board of education of the city of Duluth, at a special meeting held on Saturday, the 26th inst., children will not at present be excluded from the public schools of the city by reason of their not being vaccinated.

By order of the board,
ALFRED LERICHIEUX, Secretary.

THE MINES AT ELY.
The Anderson the Only Property Now in Operation.

Capt. E. J. Gilbert, superintendent of the Pioneer mine at Ely, was seen by a Vermilion Iron Journal representative last Tuesday. Mining operations were suspended at the Pioneer that day, just and date have pierced, at a depth of 195 feet, magnificent bodies of ore.

This leaves the Anderson the only property at Ely now in operation, and the five men who have carried this work in hard times are not wealthy nor have they sold stock. Understanding that they had a good thing, a bonanza, they have stuck to developing, paying their own bills and laying the foundation for a fortune.

POLICEMAN MILLER BUSY.
Several People on the Heights Arrested for Keeping Disorderly Houses.

In police court this morning, E. O. Moe and his wife, Ingo, who live on Duluth Heights, and who were charged with keeping a disorderly house, pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs. The complaint was made by policeman George Miller. He arrested the couple some time since for drunkenness.

Adolph Le Roy, who was brought up from Washburn Saturday, charged with stealing a watch, waived examination and was held to the grand jury. In default of bail, he was committed to the county jail.

Richard and Mary Barrett, a couple also captured by Policeman Miller, were up for keeping a disorderly house and pleaded not guilty. Their trial was set for Aug. 31. Six or seven drunks were given the usual dispensation of justice.

Duluth Business University.
During the past week the rooms occupied by this noted institution have undergone a thorough change in the way of decorating and repairing and at present present a handsome and striking appearance. A GREAT STORM

Savannah, Georgia, Swept by a Hurricane Equalled Only by the Storm Twelve Years Ago.

The Port of Tybee is Now But a Memory Being Wiped Out by the Storm.

List of Fatalities is Growing and Probably One Hundred Persons or More Have Perished.

The Hurricane Raged Along the Whole South Atlantic Coast and Great Damage Was Done.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 29.—Yesterday, the anniversary of the great storm of 1881, Savannah was swept by a hurricane equalled only by its great predecessor. For eight hours the wind swept over the city in gradually increasing volume, reaching its climax at midnight. Tybee, the port of Savannah, is a memory. Fourteen lives are known to have been lost there, and none dare to foretell the results of the search that will be made among the ruins. The property damaged is placed at not less than $1,000,000.

The storm which had been predicted by the weather bureau for several days, began early in the afternoon and increased from then until it reached the climax between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, having blown for eight hours, in a terrific hurricane. It began raining early in the morning, but only in gusts. After the first fall it ceased entirely for several hours and did not begin again until afternoon. The work of destruction began and lasted until the storm had spent its fury at midnight.

All the wharves along the river front and the warehouses and ocean steamship companies and Savannah, Florida, and Western railway are under water, and the tide is still rising. A view of the city this morning revealed a scene of ruin and wreckage surpassing that after the great hurricane of 1881. The streets are impassable from the fallen trees, twisted roofs, masses of bricks, fences, broken timbers and branches trees lying across them. Trees are piled across the sidewalks and in the square and broken limbs are swinging in every direction. Nearly every one, if not quite all, of the property owners in the city have been damaged to some extent and some to the amount of thousands.

The list of fatalities is gradually growing and it is impossible to tell to what extent it will go. Several bodies of drowned persons were picked up last night and search is now being made for others which are missing. Every hour seems to bring some new story of a death as a result of the storm. The drowning of A. C. Ulmer, assistant cashier of the Central railroad bank, on Hutchinson's island, was one of the most unfortunate fatalities of the storm. Mr. Ulmer owns a farm on the island and had gone over to pay off his hands and attend to other duties.

There were bruises on Mr. Ulmer's face and it is supposed that he struck against an outboard, when he jumped from his farm when it was about to be blown down.

Miller, his dairyman, has not been found and it is presumed that he has been drowned also. The other fatalities so far reported are as follows:

Tony Holmes, colored, crushed in a house on Hutchinson's island.

Four unknown negroes, drowned on the Brampton plantation, four miles from the city.

Louis Gagnett, colored, ran into a live trolley wire and was killed.

Tatler Squire, a 6-year-old colored boy, drowned on Hutchinson's island.

J. Williams, Mary Butler, Sarah Green, drowned on a river plantation south of the city.

Two unknown sailors, drowned at Tybee island.

There are forty to fifty other persons who are reported missing and it is supposed, as nothing has been heard from them, that their bodies will be found later.

Twelve negroes and gentlemen, which were anchored at Quarantine station, were blown high and dry upon the marsh, and some of them were carried by the storm across the marshes on to an island two miles distant from the station. One of the vessels at Tybee was completely capsized.

The ruin at Quarantine is complete. Nothing is standing where one of the finest stations of the South Atlantic was twenty-four hours ago, except the doctor's house, and how this weathered the fearful gale is miraculous.

The wharves are gone, the new fumigating plant which has cost the city so much money is in the bottom of the sea and nine vessels which were waiting there for release to come to the city are high and dry in the marsh and no doubt will be total wrecks.

The Conline was the only vessel which managed to keep afloat. The tug Paulson arrived in the city at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She brought up about sixty passengers from Tybee. Mr. Rivers, one of the passengers, says that four negroes and a cabin boy were drowned there. The Hotel Tybee is considerably damaged in front and the verandas are gone. All the bath houses are gone. The Knights of Pythias club house is washed away and two of the cottages of the Cottage club are gone. The Butler house is gone. Mr. Starr's house was washed away into the woods.

The Atlantic club house is all right. The Ranch and Rambler club houses were also wrecked. Henry Green's house was swept. George Rossell's cottage was blown out to sea.

The North End is practically cleaned out. The water swept with tremendous force over this part of the island, railroad tracks being carried from 200 to 300 feet. The Chatham club house is badly damaged. The pavilions on the beach are gone. So is the Switchback

An empty train stands in the woods. Trains on all roads are coming in irregularly, and some of them have entirely stopped to repair washouts.

The church steeples are demolished and at least 300 large trees are blown down all over the city. There is no communication whatever with Tybee except by boat. The storm was worst on Tybee island. Tybee is at the mouth of the Savannah river and is the port of the city.

SWEPT BY A HURRICANE.

All the South Atlantic Coast Visited by a Terrible Storm.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 29.—All the South Atlantic coast, as far as can be ascertained from this wrecked point, with much of the interior, was swept during the early hours of Sunday morning by the West India hurricane which has been playing such havoc for several days. The wires are down everywhere, buried beneath ruins, and information is meager.

The fury of the hurricane is unexampled in interior Carolina. For eight or ten hours the hurricane held the country relentlessly in its clutches, and men and beasts alike were powerless to contend against the surging wave of the elements. Hundreds of lofty trees were ruthlessly torn from their roots. But not only were trees the sufferers from this fearful storm. Houses and other property went the same way, though it was a peculiar feature of the havoc that the damage to this class of property was not so serious as to other classes.

The electric railway, the railroads, the telegraph and telephone companies were the greatest sufferers. All these institutions were as completely stopped as if they had suffered a paralytic stroke. Colfax has been for or most the whole day cut off completely from the outside world.

The wind blew at the rate of forty-two miles an hour here, sixty miles an hour on the seacoast, and perhaps a hundred miles an hour at sea. The rainfall here during the storm for twelve hours was 4.39 inches.

CHARLESTON UNDER WATER.

That is the Rumor That Comes From Richmond.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A rumor comes by wire from Richmond, Va., at which point trains have arrived from the south, that Charleston, S. C., is under water. The general service indications are that Charleston was right in the path of the tornado. In reply to inquiries addressed to Richmond, the following was received at 3 p. m.:

"Accounts of the storm meager. Several people reported killed. At Charleston vessels have blown ashore. Docks are ruined. Atlantic coast line tracks under water; damage to property estimated $1,000,000."

New York Also Visited.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—New York caught the edge of last night's storm. Heavy telegraph damage was done in the immediate vicinity. The damage to shipping cannot be ascertained until telegraphic communication has been restored. Four telegraph companies are badly crippled, the high wind tearing down wires in all directions.

The storm cut off all railroad communication along Long Branch and other resorts along the Jersey coast. The tracks are under four feet of water. A high wind prevails today and a heavy sea is running in New York bay. The waves dash over the battery wall, throwing spray twenty feet in the air.

Struck by a Cyclone.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 29.—Kernellville, N. C., was struck by the cyclone. Four people were killed and 100 houses blown down. There was frightful destruction and loss of life south of here.

SHOT BY A HIGHWAYMAN.

The Mystery of a Chicago Shooting Case Cleared Up.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Discoveries made yesterday by the armory police go to prove that Homer C. Darling, who was found dying under the Twelfth street viaduct early Sunday morning, was shot by a highwayman. He died an hour after being carried into the hospital. A bullet had drilled a big hole in his left groin and death had resulted from loss of blood.

At first the police were of the opinion that Darling had attempted to rob some one and had been shot. This theory was strengthened by the man's persistent refusal to tell the officers how he came to be wounded. The facts that came to light yesterday, however, prove that he was a peaceable, quiet man, and that instead of being a lootpad, as was first supposed, he was the victim of a thief who tried to rob him.

Darling was about 35 years of age. He came to Chicago last January from Rochester, N. Y. His widow and two children live there.

TOOK A PACKAGE OF MONEY.

A Smart Thief Makes a Big haul at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 29.—Yesterday afternoon a middle-aged stranger walked into the Builders' exchange when the place was crowded and Secretary Horner and other officers were busy. A few minutes before, Contractor George Mason had gone from the bank to the exchange carrying with him a package containing $750 in gold which he intended to pay to some workmen in Indianapolis.

Mason handed the package to Secretary Horner and requested him to put it in the safe. Horner did so, leaving the safe door partially open. Then Horner resumed his conversation with a gentleman, during which the stranger, who had followed Mason from the bank, slipped around to the safe, took the package of money and escaped. It was learned that he took a train for Cleveland and the chase is in progress.

Bad Fire at Rockaway.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Fire started at Rockaway beach at 2 o'clock this morning and destroyed the railway station, Colby's hotel and the seaside house. The guests were panic stricken but there were no fatalities, though some were painfully burned.

WIRES WERE SNAPPED

The Telegraph Companies Suffered Heavy Damage by the Great Gale in the Eastern States.

Every Eastern Telegraph Line Was Very Nearly Paralyzed by the Awful Blow Until Noon.

Poles Were Down in Stretches of Five Miles and Wires Were Snapped and Bent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A general storm in midwinter could scarcely have wrought more damage to the telegraph companies than did the gale of last night. Every Eastern telegraph line is very nearly paralyzed. The great network of wires of the Western Union company suffered to an alarming extent. In places east of Buffalo and along the Baltimore & Ohio to Washington, the ravages of the storm were responsible for the wholesale destruction of wires. Poles are down in stretches of five miles and the wires are snapped, bent and lashed into useless tangles of inextricable puzzles.

Occurring, as it has, when the eyes of the West are most directed upon the capital, and when the pulse of trade has begun to quicken, the loss of communication is more keenly felt. About noon, however, the tremendous efforts put forth by the telegraph companies resulted in communication with the Eastern world. True, not many wires were working, but there were enough to transmit the absolutely necessary and precious messages.

THE WHITE CAPS DISPERSED.

A Farmer Near Northfield Gave Them a Warm Reception.

NORTHFIELD, Minn., Aug. 29.—Sunday night between 10 and 11 o'clock four masked men, dressed in rough backwoodsman's clothes with long white caps drawn over their heads, carrying fifty feet of rope, four bunches of hickory switches four feet long and armed with guns, called at the premises of Elias Goring, five miles south of this city.

He is a bachelor 50 years old, living in the edge of the big timber. A raid was made on his house where he was supposed to be sleeping, but he had moved into his granary. Repairing there they smashed in the door. Goring heard them when they came to the house and was prepared. Jumping through a back window, a pistol and a musket in hands, he attacked the besiegers and a battle took place.

The night was dark. An attempt was made to place a rope around Goring's neck, when a shot from his gun took effect in the legs of one of the White Caps, the gang fleeing, carrying the wounded man with them, scattering blood as they went.

The affair is the outcome of a school district feud of two years' standing. Some of the parties are known and will be arrested.

SIoux CITY'S TROUBLES.

It is Expected They Will Be Settled at an Early Date.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Aug. 29.—Indications now are that Sioux City will come out of its recent financial troubles in a few days with practically all the institutions involved in the failures on a sound basis.

The failures resulted from the assignment of the Union Loan and Trust company, which had been used as a clearing house for other institutions, and the real damage was to these institutions which were carried down. John C. Coombs, of Boston, attorney for a committee of creditors appointed to develop means by which the settlement, has outlined a plan that will be submitted at a meeting of the committee in Chicago Wednesday, which will be accepted by the creditors and is very favorably considered here.

THE CONDEMNED CHOCTAWS.

They Will Probably Be Shot on the Day that Was Set.

CADDO, I. T., Aug. 29.—A secret conference between Indian Inspector Faison, Judge Holson and District Attorney Lewis was held here yesterday afternoon regarding the execution of the nine Choctaws at Wilbarion on Sept. 8. Enough was learned to show that the Choctaw authorities had demanded that the United States government interfere no further with their executions, or else take them in charge and do as it pleased with them. It is now believed that they will be shot on the day fixed for the execution.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.

Lillian Russell to Marry Sandow, the Strong Man.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The Herald has the following: Lillian Russell is to be married again very soon if the rumors now current in theatrical circles are true. The man who is to wed the queen of comic opera in America is Eugene Sandow, the strongest man in the world. The story of their meeting is one tinged with a little stage romance, and it would appear that in both instances it was a case of love at first sight. Both Miss Russell and Sandow were seen last night but refused to make any statement.

A Notable Catholic Event.

DENVER, Ia., Aug. 29.—Mgr. Satolli will pontificate Sept. 17, when Cardinal Gibbons will invest Archbishop-elect Hennessy. Archbishop Corrigan will celebrate pontifical vespers. Archbishops Feehan, Ryan, Williams, Elder, Ireland, Riordan, Kater, Kain and Chappelle, fifteen suffragan bishops and 300 priests of metropolitan sees have also accepted invitations.

LOST IN THE CYCLONE

Port Royal, S. C., Was Visited by a Cyclone Which Was Followed by a Tidal Wave.

It Almost Swept the Town Away and Caused Great Loss of Life and Property.

It is Positively Asserted That Over One Hundred People Were Either Killed or Drowned.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 30.—News was received direct from Port Royal, S. C., last night that 100 lives were lost in the cyclone that burst upon that town at the rate of 100 miles an hour Monday, followed by a tidal wave that almost swept the town away. The information is reliable. It is furnished by E. M. Averill, general freight and passenger agent of the Charleston, Seaboard & Northern railroad, who came up from Port Royal last night.

He says Port Royal is cut off from the outside world. All telegraph wires are down and the railroads are washed away. Mr. Averill was unable to state the exact number of lives lost, but without over-estimating he says he is certain they will number over 100. The unfortunate were killed and drowned. He saw thirty-two dead bodies. Nearly all the drowned were negroes. So far as reported when Mr. Averill came away only six white persons had lost their lives.

Over on Sullivan's island, summer resort near Charleston, the ruin is well nigh complete. By midnight Sunday the gale was blowing seventy-five miles an hour. The wind and rain were so violent that the island was almost submerged. The water last night was seven feet deep. Three lives were lost here: Mrs. E. Pollard, Andrew Hyman and Sylvia Hyman. The latter, a great many islanders sought refuge from the pitiless wind and rising waters in Fort Moultrie.

DAMAGE ON THE HUDSON.
Boat Houses Were Badly Wrecked and Heavy Losses Caused.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Hudson River valley was right in the path of yesterday's storm. There was great havoc among the boats and boat club houses of the lower Hudson, and the loss will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The brick laden schooner Robert Blair, Capt. Goetz, was aground and full of water at Tompkins cove, Rockland county.

A large loaded schooner was sunk at the same place and the track of the West Shore railroad is badly washed out. The south track could only be used at that point today. A tugboat, with its tow of three boats, is ashore at Stony Point and the schooner Katrina Von Kottlitz, of New York, brick laden, Capt. Albert Goe, sank at 7 a. m. yesterday and will prove a total loss.

There were eight canal boats ashore between Otisville island and Croton and the river shore was filled with wreckage of broken up boats and their cargoes. There was a cabin sloop yacht sunk off the island. The Hudson river railroad tracks were badly wrecked out at this point and the south-bound trains were switched at Croton and Montross to the north-bound track.

At Croton the boat was filled with wreckage and every boat of the Croton boat club is either swamped or broken up. At Croton point five canal boats were sunk and their dock lands scattered.

DAY GAVE HIMSELF UP.
President Day, of the Plankinton, Again in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—Frank T. Day, president of the Plankinton bank, who disappeared soon after the bank failed and who has since been indicted for illegal banking and embezzlement, appeared in the municipal court this morning and pleaded not guilty. He was released on $15,000 bail. Mr. Day has spent most of his time at a Michigan health resort since he left Milwaukee.

Big Fire in London.
LONDON, Aug. 30.—The packing box factory of George York & Co., the piano-forte factory of Squire & Sons and several other workshops and stores on Euston road, near St. Pancras station, London, were burned to the ground this morning. The carriage factory of Harrison & Sons was much damaged. Squire & Sons lost 200 pianos. The total loss is $30,000.

Forest Fires in France.
PARIS, Aug. 30.—Forest fires have burned for two days near Figueras in the department of the Somme and have destroyed eighty hectares of timber. Yesterday 300 soldiers were called out to fight back the flames. One of them was burned to death and several others were injured. The latest news is that the fire is still spreading.

Land Grants Approved.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The secretary of the interior has approved the Northern Pacific Railroad company clear list of section No. 6, embracing 470,511 acres lying within the primary limits of the grant located within the Spokane land district. The secretary has also approved clear lists numbered 4 and 5, embracing 70,616 acres under the grant to the Florida Central & Peninsular Railroad company.

Must Keep Off Reservations.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The secretary of the interior has decided that parous wishing to make domestic entries in the Cherokee outlet will not be permitted to go upon the Osage and Ponca Indian reservations contiguous thereto, with a view of entering the outlet at the appointed time.

THEY WILL FIGHT IT

Teller and Other Silver Senators Declare They Will Continue to Fight Against Unconditional Repeal.

Some of Them Not Unlikely to Set Their Mouths Going and Then Walk Away.

The Chances are Favorable for Speedy Concurrence by the House in Any Amended Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The silver debate in the senate is to be made a test of physical endurance. This at least is the program which the senators from the silver states announce. Mr. Teller, of Colorado, says he has brought his winter clothes with him and will wear them before unconditional repeal shall pass. The senators from the silver states stand alone in this determination. They will not be added to any great extent by the free coinage Democrats, unless Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, should take a hand and according to the standing senate joke "set his mouth going and walk away and leave it."

In that event Mr. Morgan would prove a powerful ally, for his resolute flow of talk could be relied upon to last for many days. But most of the free coinage Democrats, it is believed, agree with Mr. Hill that to filibuster on this question would be to lower the character of the senate and diminish public respect for its deliberations.

These analogies to the silver men have been heard in the senate on other burning questions, but somehow, after two or three weeks of talk and almost continuous all night sessions, a compromise has been reached and an agreement entered into for a vote to be taken at a fixed time.

In persons who are not familiar with legislative ways and who do not realize the care with which every step in a campaign is calculated upon in advance, it might appear to be a long look ahead to foretell the course of the silver repeal bill when it is again before the house. But there is good reason for the belief that the managers of the bill in the house have already begun to make their calculations on this course.

It has been suggested in certain quarters that after the Vorcees repeal bill passes the senate (if it does pass) as a substitute for the Wilson bill, it must upon its return to the house be referred to a committee. The proper reference in this case would undoubtedly be to the coinage committee, but as this committee is to be but a rubber stamp for the repeal bill, it has been presumed that the house will send the bill to the banking and currency or even the ways and means committee. This course is feasible.

The anti-silver men think they have found a shorter road to the desired end. This would be found in a motion made as soon as the bill is returned by the senate to concur in the senate amendments. It so happens that under the new rules the bill may be disposed of in this way at the pleasure of the majority at that time, provided it is not in such shape as to require consideration in committee of the whole. The bill as originally introduced and as reported in amended form from the senate finance committee does not contain any paragraph involving an expenditure of money, so it does not fall under the terms of the proviso requiring consideration by committee of the whole.

It is to be presumed that the silver men in the senate will endeavor to attach some such amendment to the bill before it returns to the house, but if they fail, according to the anti-silver view, there is no objection to speedy concurrence by the house, if the great majority disclosed on its passage last Monday can be held together.

The house this morning resumed consideration of the rules. General debate will close at 2 o'clock. In its course, after the routine morning business, the bill for the repeal of the Sherman act was taken up and Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, proceeded to speak. He said that the repeal of the purchasing clauses of the act of July, 1890, were the only reason for the extraordinary session it would seem to him insufficient. It was, however, justified by the existing financial stringency. One thing Congress and the people agreed on and that was both gold and silver should be continued in use as money. Monometallism pure and simple had never gained a foothold in the United States. If senators would cheap money, and an advance in prices, free coinage of silver was the way to do it, but they should not call it bimetalism.

Mr. Sherman then proceeded to discuss the history of the act that bears his name. He was not in favor of the free coinage of silver and regarded it as but another name for the monometallism of silver, and was only in favor of the purchase of silver for purposes of coining. The conferees of the two houses agreed upon their differences, and in that agreement secured the repeal of the Hoard-Alison act. Mr. Sherman retorted senators that when they criticized the law that was mistaken after him they should remember that this law now on the statute books was far better than either the house bill or that passed by the senate. The president had set forth the decline in the value of silver, but had failed to give the cause of that decline. Had he taken a broader view of the cause of that decline he could have explained it all.

It was due, Mr. Sherman said, to the fact that we were called upon to pay our debts, payable in gold. England was the great creditor country and we should neither be ashamed of, nor hate her; we are her children and partake of much of the characteristics of the parent stock. For the first time in a number of years, the balance of trade was against us and we had to make the difference good.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

Last Stage of the Debate Reached in the Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The last stage of the home rule debate in the house of commons began today. As usual on Wednesday the house met at noon. The exceptionally large attendance showed that the majority of the members, who went to the country for their holidays recently had returned to hear the final speeches of the party leaders and to take part in the final division on next Friday night.

On the Irish benches hardly a seat was vacant. The Liberals and Radicals were present, almost to a man. All the party leaders were cheered as they entered, but to great enthusiasm was shown until Mr. Gladstone and John Morley came in together. Then the Irish members rose, cheering, the Liberals and Radicals joining them, and for several minutes the house rang with shouts for the two men who had done most to render possible the advancement of the home rule bill to the third reading.

Before Mr. Gladstone rose to move the third reading, a few amendments were added to the bill at the instance of Mr. Morley. After they had been disposed of without debate, Mr. Gladstone rose amid a storm of cheers. He began his speech with references to the opinions made by Unionist leaders on the history of the bill. He said that on former occasions for home rule in Ireland. The opposition, he said, had contended that in no other country could analogies be found for changing the union between Great Britain and Ireland. Their contention could not be supported by historical facts.

In Austria-Hungary, in Norway and Sweden, in the United States and in the British colonies, there were to be found the abundant proofs that it was altogether desirable to separate local from imperial affairs. Throughout European and American literature all night sessions, a compromise has been reached and an agreement entered into for a vote to be taken at a fixed time.

FIRED BEFORE THE POLICE.
Riotous Demonstrations by Unemployed Men in Chicago Checked.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The crowd of unemployed men and idle spectators who gathered at the lake front this morning was much larger than usual. Shortly after 10 o'clock indications of rioting began to manifest themselves, but no definite move towards a concerted demonstration was made. By 11 o'clock the outskirts of the throng were surging across Michigan boulevard and blocking access to the Auditorium. Along the boulevard and streets leading from that thoroughfare traffic was completely suspended.

The chief of police was notified of the condition of affairs and detachments of police, numbering a together 500 men, were ordered to the lake front. In the meantime 500 Italians and others marched up State street to Louis Stizari's provision store, where they demanded two flags, the property of the Italian C. B. Sharpshooters' society. Mr. Stizari refused to give up the flags, but the leaders, by which they bought Italian and American flags and returned to the lake front.

By this time the police reinforcements began to arrive, and they were just in time for the mob had become excited and very disorderly. Rioters who were picked up stones and coupling pins from the Illinois Central tracks and threw the heavy missiles at the police. The latter, helped by Inspectors Shea and Loughlin, charged on the crowd and after a brief struggle the rioters fled pursued by the police.

As the heart of the mob around the monument saw their friends scatter before the swinging clubs of the police, the leaders and their followers turned and fled and five minutes later Columbus monument for the first time today was deserted. That the mob was armed and intended a riotous demonstration was evidenced by the eager collection of weapons strewn on the lake front green sward after the mob fled. Clubs and staves were most prominent. A number of missiles bound by long wire handles were noticeable, and pieces of iron of all shapes and sizes completed the collection.

In the scamp for safety, the weapons had been abandoned. About a dozen prisoners remained in police custody after the mob had fled. They were captured in the rush and held by the officers, while other police continued their pursuit. The prisoners were taken to Central station and an attempt was made to release the city ormed objects of the police department for preserving order at this afternoon's meeting of the carpenters and their sympathizers on the lake front are ample, and it is not probable that any disorder will occur.

The Tour of the World's Fair Foreign Commissioners.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 30.—The World's fair foreign commissioners reached here this morning and spent several hours in a drive about the city. The skeletons of stores and factories and the operations of rebuilding the city ormed objects of interest to the foreigners not to be found in any other city of the Northwest. Mayor Smith and Martin Hector, president of the state board of World's fair managers, headed the reception committee. A slight change in the program of the party, with a stop over at Milwaukee, will bring the excursionists into Chicago tomorrow afternoon.

WOLCOTT TALKS

The Young Senator from Colorado Makes a Lengthy Address in Behalf of Free Silver.

Urges the Senators to Stand Firm as in the Past Against the Eastern Clamor.

The Currency is Already Insufficient for the People's Needs and Should Not be Contracted.

Asserts Next Move of Wall Street Will be to Get an Issue of Gold Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—After very little and very unimportant routine morning business had been transacted, the house resumed the consideration of the new code of rules. An amendment was adopted giving the committee on ways and means jurisdiction over all measures purporting to raise revenue. There was nothing of public interest in the morning business of the senate, aside from a discussion as to the official residence of the president. Mr. Wolcott, of Colorado, took the floor in support of the repeal of the Sherman act and Mr. Wolcott (Republican of Colorado) addressed the senate in opposition to it.

Senator Wolcott sarcastically referred to the great number of senators who profess to be monetarists, and said that an international agreement was necessary and pointed out that thereby they accepted the single gold policy of England. He said that the friends of silver were not carried away by such utterances as those of Senator Hill, of the other day. Who was not for them was against them, and his speech would have been as logical if made against silver and in favor of unconditional repeal. The senator knew that free coinage by separate act was impossible during the administration, and that any assistance he desired to render must come now or never at all. Silver had been compelled to bear the brunt of the attack for months, and it seems now to be involved in some fashion with the Democratic factional differences in New York.

Senator Wolcott next paid his respects to Senator Voorhees and said that his change of front was one of the most remarkable and curious occurrences. He attacked the senator's record on silver and national banks, and said that all his past utterances as shown by the record were in line with his present position. From the senator's article last year in the North American Review to show his lack of consistency, and asserted that now for the first time he (Wolcott) was free to represent the masses, and Sherman, supposed to represent the classes, were in complete accord in financial matters. The wolf was howling with the lamb, and the leopard was lying down with the kid. This harmony, he feared would not continue long, and when they arose they would be in a different number.

He adjured the senator to remember Solomon's admonition "That it is better that thou shouldst not vow than that thou shouldst and not keep it." Referring to his advocacy of silver, no man could be a bimetalist in the sense that he believed in the further coinage of gold and silver by the United States and advocate this bill. The president would undoubtedly veto any independent measure for the free coinage of silver and silver by the United States, and any man who did not believe this to be true, any man who vouched for Mr. Cleveland as a bimetalist would vouch for the man in the moon. Why not act now on the whole financial question? It was glibly said that we could have further legislation later. We should never know any more about silver than we know now, and congress was in session to deal with the subject.

It might be true, as Senator Hill might last week, that the purchasing clause would be unconditionally repealed, but it was equally true that he might find it necessary after a time to revise his prophecy. If this act should pass and silver be, as it must, absolutely debased and degraded, he knew of no reason why any senator who believed in free coinage should ever cast another vote in favor of protection in any form. This was an era of experiment; let us experiment all round. Even if it were true that our abandonment of silver would in time compel other nations to use the step, would be ruinous and unnecessary. We could absorb all the silver offered for coinage without inflation of the currency and without impairing our financial credit at home or abroad.

He had demonstrated a few days ago the folly of the statement that the repeal of the Sherman act would restore confidence. This was a banker's panic, and if you asked a banker today how the repeal was to restore confidence he could not tell you. The depositors who drew out money because of the existence of that law, it seemed, unaccountably, at that time, had no reason to believe that the increased volume of money. Their plan was, however, after the repeal to ask for the issue of $100,000,000 of gold bonds, and they had good reason to believe that a complacent finance committee would authorize such a bill. While waiting, cleaning house certificates based on the discounted paper furnished an excellent substitute for money. No more remarkable statement had ever been made than that by Mr. Gorman when with bated breath he urged the senate not to inform itself of the facts with regard to the condition of the banks but to let the comptroller alone.

A Western point of view was not of much value these days on Wall street, but he ventured to suggest to the able financiers of that attractive but expensive locality that if they would prevent a repetition of such frauds as the whisky trust and such mismanagement as had been shown in conflagration and other industries, they would be doing a great service to the country. The Sherman act or some kindred measure requiring silver coinage must afford them the only avenue possible for an enlargement of the currency which they especially needed; would look at a map of the United States and observe that they cover a broad expanse of country and contain many people with many views; and would so modify their opinions as not to believe that every man who differed with them respecting financial matters must be a villain. He realized, frankly, we would the sooner arrive at that condition of mutual confidence and regard which ought to obtain between the people and their representatives.

Mr. Wolcott then went on to controvert the arguments that there was an overproduction of silver in the world; that it was cheaply produced at a cost much less than its present market price as a commodity, and that upon a return to free coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1 the present price would be largely increased. He held that not one of these statements was true and that the falsity of each of them could be readily demonstrated. In his country he cited a number of figures, and taking up particularly the case of Leadville cited the results of a careful inquiry made by a committee of leading citizens into the cost of silver production there. His summary showed that Leadville had produced 14,000,000 ounces of silver at a cost of $21,500,000, showing a loss in silver mining, changed into a fair profit by the value of the by-products.

The people of the far Northwest favored bimetalism. They were not inflationists; they did not advocate fiat money. They believed that, as Senator Wolcott said, the rule of the majority which nature had interposed offered a better safeguard for the people than the wisdom or unwisdom of their rulers. They desired the single standard, but they were not enough gold to do the business of the world and furnish its inhabitants with the currency they needed. They desired a currency which was based on the possibility of the great West, he emphasized the experience of countries. Silver had not depreciated but gold had appreciated.

The question as to whether silver should be demonetized by this bill was national and not local. If he represented any other section, with his knowledge of the possibilities of the great West, he would be equally tenacious for the preservation of the white metal as a standard of value. No man removed from the West could realize the reality of the financial resources of this republic and its constantly increasing needs, would ever stand for the contraction of a currency already in excess.

The interests were identical with those of the other sections of the country which were growers and not lenders. They demanded the coinage of both metals because the history of all countries had taught them that they needed the safest and most adequate basis for their currency. The people of the West were not influenced by their environment. It was true that for a generation at least many great states would suffer if this bill became a law, but they could endure it. The strong would survive and the weak would go to the wall.

VERY BOLD ROBBERY.
THIEVES IN NEW YORK Drove Off With a Load of Tobacco.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 31.—The police of this city are looking for a gang of thieves who have committed a bold robbery in broad daylight in New York city recently. The thieves drove away with a team and a wagon on which was loaded $4000 worth of tobacco.

Yesterday the team was found drawing the wagon along Broadway, Brooklyn, without a driver and the owner, Solomon Hecht, of 21 Avenue D, New York, was notified. No clue to the thieves has yet been found.

The Naval Veterans.
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The train leaving the Jersey Central railroad station in New York City at 12:12 o'clock this morning carried away a party of 100 veterans bound for Indianapolis, where the eighth national convention of the National Association of Naval Veterans will open next Saturday, prior to the general election of the G. NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The strike among the longshoremen is at an end. This morning they relinquished the struggle, without gaining a point, and applied to work at the various piers at the reduced rates.

MISHAPS TO VESSELS

Last Tuesday's Gale is Responsible for Wrecking of Several Vessels on the Quebec Coast.

Lives of People on a Yacht Saved by the Owner Swimming Ashore for Assistance.

Great Washouts Caused on the Lake St. John Railroad by Big Torrents from the Mountains.

QUEBEC, Aug. 31.—From all points comes news of disasters by Tuesday's gale. The British bark Premier which was loading at Metis in the lower St. Lawrence was washed on the rocks and is dismantled. A large bateau from the lower parishes loaded with firewood was wrecked at the mouth of the St. Charles river. The steam yacht Wasp, owned by Mr. McNabb, went aground in the Du Loup river, and the lives of those on board were saved through the efforts of the yacht's owner who with a rope around his waist managed to swim ashore and obtain assistance.

On the Lake St. John railroad the washouts by mountain torrents are of such magnitude that no through trains could be run either Tuesday night or yesterday, and despite the fact that hundreds of men are at work repairing the damage none can possibly run before Friday.

THE DUTCH CELEBRATED.
They Assembled in Large Numbers at the World's Fair.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUND, CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Thousands of persons entering the gates of the exposition this morning wore upon their breasts a yellow sash and badge with the inscription in black across its face "Netherlands, 1893." They had come to the fair to celebrate the birthday of their queen, the young lady who in a measure guides the destiny of Holland.

Queen Wilhelmina is the sole living descendant of Prince William the Silent, of Orange, who secured the independence of the Netherlands. She is 14 years old today, having already reigned about two years. This is the first great gathering of Dutchmen ever held in the West and many of them were in festival hall at 11 o'clock when the exercises of the day began. Hon. George Birkbeck, Jr., royal commissioner general to the fair and consul of the Netherlands, acted as chairman and made an address. His appearance was the signal for a spontaneous outburst of applause, which was continued as he proceeded to address his people.

At the close of the exercises the audience marched up the Midway to the pavilion of the Netherlands. The natives from the prosperous island of Java, which is controlled by the Dutch, gave their visitors a warm welcome and the festivities were continued until late in the afternoon, the public being excluded.

THE TYRANNY OF CAPITAL.

Strong Address by Judge Brown, of the Michigan Supreme Court.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 31.—The American Bar association was called to order this morning with a much larger attendance than yesterday. President Tucker introduced Associate Justice Brown, of the Michigan supreme court, who gave the annual address, which was on the subject of "Distribution of Property."

Judge Brown said in part: "Legislation can do much to improve the relations between employer and employee and to palliate the evils of the present situation. It may fix the number of hours of a legal day's work, to protect the life and health of the workmen against accidents or diseases arising from ill-constructed machinery, badly-ventilated rooms, defective appliances or dangerous occupations, and may limit or prohibit altogether the labor of women and children in employments injurious to their health or beyond their strength."

"It may go deeper still. Bearing in mind that the most grievous cause for complaint lies in monopolies and combinations, it may by constitutional amendment, if necessary, forbid the charter of business corporations for any other purposes than those of mining, manufacturing, insurance, or transportation, especially for farming or trading purposes, or trafficking in any manner in the necessities of life. With the aid of the judicial power I may put an end to combinations having for their object the control and monopoly of particular articles of manufacture or may accomplish the same purpose by authorizing such article to be placed temporarily upon the free list."

"It may put a stop to the vicious system of building railroads and other public works through construction companies organized by the directors of the road in their own interest, to whom all the bonds and all the available stock is turned over, and equipping the same through car trust certificates, also issued to the directors, who thus retain to themselves title to the rolling stock—a most cunningly devised scheme by which the stockholders and creditors are first defrauded for the benefit of the bondholders, and the bondholders are thus defrauded for the benefit of the directors."

"By the election of competent and fearless executive officers, the people may do much to secure the management of corporations for the benefit of the stockholders and the public, and may throttle these corporation Frankenstein's which, created by the legislature, have misused their powers to corrupt the will and paralyze the arm of their creators. In protecting the public against the tyranny of capital it is equally incumbent upon the legislature to guard it against the tyranny of labor."

STILL ON THE YACHT.

President Cleveland and Family Off the Coast.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 31.—The yacht ONEDA, with President Cleveland and his family on board, anchored off Captains island late last night. E. C. Benedict, the owner of the Oneda, who came with the party from Buzzard's Bay, came ashore early this morning and was driven to his residence.

All efforts to board the yacht have proved fruitless, no one being permitted to go on board. It is believed the Oneda will sail for New York this afternoon.

LUMBER PICKING UP

Improved in the Tone of the Market and the Outlook is Manifest.

Sherry Lumber Company Closed a Deal With Sandusky People for a Million Feet.

Lumbermen Who Are Getting Stocks on Hand Now Are Going to Make Money.

There is a decided improvement in the tone of the lumber market and many bidders who predicted that not a mill would be sawing after Sept. 20 are now finding their predictions. As an indication of the change for the better a recently made may be cited. The Sherry Lumber company this week sold a lot of about 1,000,000 to Sandusky at a figure only 50 cents per board foot less than last year's maximum price. This is not the only deal in sight.

For the past few days there has been a Buffalo man looking for lumber and he may make a deal for several million feet. At present there is a difference of opinion as to how it is sorted but it is quite certain that a deal will eventually be closed. The man interested in lumbering is last evening. "The men who are buying themselves just now to keep mills open and get a stock on hand going to make some money when the comes. The demand for lumber is not lessened any, although the people do not so well able to buy it and it will be that when the movement begins this year's cut will be extended. There is no more lumber being now than is actually being used and it is going to be a shortage. When men who have been accumulating stock are going to reap a profit. Newton and E. A. Shores, of Ash were here a few days ago and in the lumber market said that they were going to keep their mills open as they had the money to pay their bills. They confidently look for a big next year and expect the price will be high enough to cover the cost of carrying stock and give a big profit.

The demand for stumpage is increased and inquiries are coming in to pine men very rapidly. They say that they are now getting it cheap, in fact over half the price asked six months ago. The firm will make many ventures.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Professor's Love Story."

At the Temple last evening who never seen "The Professor's Love Story." Barrie's little comedy, as by Mr. Willard and his company, completely in love with it, those who seen it before were more in love with it than ever. The large audience, it was one of the most brilliant plays ever filled the Temple, was thoroughly delighted and sadly depraved it had been had it not. "The Professor's Love Story" is one of the most delicately and dainty comedies has been put on the stage and one of the best of the kind. Every one who saw it declared it the best play of the season.

Its success gives assurance that it will become one of the popular plays and that any production of it will be received with great warmth. The character of the absent minded professor is taken to perfection by Willard. His response is especially quiet and subdued and consistently all the more artistic. His command of the expression of his face is thing marvelous. Every feeling is seen there so faithfully that he is able to speak to indicate the emotion that is agitating him. Marie Burns' Lucy White is a charming character and the audience falls in love with her as well as the professor. It is probably the most pleasing character in the play. The support is all that could be asked. F. H. Tyler and Royce Carleton are the two Scotch farmers to perfection. The former whose distinct and extraordinary good. The staging of all of Mr. Willard's plays was complete and elegant in every detail. The close the entire company was before the curtain and each individual member was greeted with great applause. Mr. Willard has won the hearts of Duluth theatregoers as no actor ever has and will always find a company left for Eau Claire this evening and will also go to Winona and Rosse.

Mrs. Heller's Musical. Musical was given last evening at home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Heller, on Second street, in honor of Mr. Heller's brother, H. Heller, of Norway. Piano solos were given by Herschman, of Chicago, Henry Ham and Max Allenberg, of West Nor.

CONSIDERED TO CLARK.

A Young Girl Sent Down From Biwabik to the Poor Superintendent.

The Misses train Tuesday evening brought to Duluth from Biwabik a 13-year-old girl with a big card attached to her hat bearing the legend, "Thomas Clark, superintendent of the poor." The child is Finnish and could not speak a word of English. She has, so far as could be learned, no relatives or friends in this section of the country. How she got to Biwabik is not clear. Mr. Clark took the girl to the Woman's home, Key, Savage, of the Foundation, which happened to be in the city, and although children are not his specialty, he consented to take Mary Dario, as she called herself. The little girl left for St. Paul yesterday.

There is no diminution in the daily appeals for county aid. Mr. Clark says, and he has his assistants kept busy all the time.

ARE WINNING SUCCESS.

Two Former Duluthians Who Are Now in the Operative Field.

Those of G. V. Quillard's friends who have always believed that he was destined to win success in the operative field should be pleased to learn that he is making great strides. When he went East a few weeks ago it was to enter the "Venus" company owned by E. E. Rice, who was promising the "Venus" company which appeared here three years ago. Since then he has been advanced several times and is now the understanding of the leading comedian, a very promising position.

Another former Duluthian who is now singing in opera and bids fair to win fame is Miss Mabel Holden. She is with Thomas O. Seabrooke's "Isle of Champagne," one of the best comic operas now on the stage, and her voice is said to be developing into a very strong and capable one.

Latest New York Success.

The plays of today which have been identified with success are those which the thread of the story, be it either comedy or melodrama, has interest enough to enthrall the audience. Among the leading successes of the past season are the "Nominations" and the "Henrietta" for Congress. The latest New York success however is a new piece called "The Journalists" which abounds with realistic and provoking situations of the natural kind that an audience is not compelled to continuously draw upon its store of imagination, and presented by as capable a company as the one Mr. Howard has secured. "The Journalists" is destined to even a larger run than the Henrietta or any of the later day comedies.

Cian Stewart Entertainment.

Hunter block hall was filled last evening and the ball given by Cian Stewart was a thorough success in every way. The musical program was particularly good, among those giving selections being Chief Danowick, Geo. S. West, Miss Donaldson and John Stewart. Mr. Haddon, of Minneapolis, gave an excellent violin solo and W. D. Gordon and Thomas Clark recited very cleverly some humorous selections. The Highland fling was given by six young girls and the sailor's hornpipe by Misses Jessie Clark and Florence Jackson. After the program there was dancing.

The Clerks Union.

The Clerks union met Tuesday evening. The committee which was in charge of the reception of the new members in which it was carried out. Every member present was appointed to get new members and a plan of dividing the city into districts was suggested. Committees were appointed to look after the printing of badges for Labor day. There is some fear that the strike are thinking of opening up again in the evenings and the clerks view this with alarm.

The Lantern Parade.

The Duluth Bicycle club is endeavoring to make its grand lantern parade on the evening of Labor day a brilliant and successful affair. Every lady bicyclist in the city is invited to join. All will meet at the corner of Fifth avenue and First street at 8 o'clock. The parade will move east from there on First street to Seventh avenue east, down to Superior street and west to Eleventh avenue west, then turning and coming back to Second avenue east where all will disband. Prizes will be given the lady and gentleman who ride the most prettily decorated wheels.

The Great Northern.

The Grand Rapids Magnet reports that a party of Great Northern railroad men have reached Duluth, looking the country over very carefully and making accurate notes as to the topography and soil of the country. It is a foregone conclusion that the Great Northern will build through that section just as soon as the money market eases up a little.

Made an Assignment.

The Lake Superior Produce company, of West Superior, made a voluntary assignment yesterday to Levi M. Barkey, who was required to give bonds in the sum of $3,500. The company has been in business two years and a few months ago established a store in Duluth.

JOY FOR THE LITTLE ONES

How to Secure a Clean bill of Health for Baby

Cholera Infantum picking Out Badly Nourished Infants.

Five Thousand Little Graves Are Dug Each Year in Philadelphia.

"Five thousand little graves are dug each year in Philadelphia, for little babies," says that excellent journal, Health and Home, "and 5000 little headstones are yearly set up over their graves, all due to deaths traceable to diseases which spring from wrong feeding."

High temperature with improper feeding bring cholera infantum, diarrhea, and convulsions. But with the use of proper food, and there is nothing so absolutely good as lactated food, this danger may be avoided. Statistics show that babies thrive best upon lactated food. Next to pure infantum than all the medicines ever made.

The superlative importance of pure, nutritious food, and the long experience by some of the most prominent physicians in the country of infant disorders from mistakes in diet, led to the preparation of lactated food. Next to pure mother's milk it is the most nourishing, strengthening, readily digested, and palatable food that can be given a baby.

HAPPY BABY MORNING.

It more closely resembles mother's milk than any other food known. Its basis is sugar of milk, which is the basis of mother's milk. With it is combined the nutritive elements of wheat, barley and oats, in such proportion as best meets the requirements of the growing child. In recommending the use of this food at this season, one of Duluth's best physicians said to a Herald reporter yesterday: "This food should be in the hands of every mother. For in all cases of defective lactation the infant's health is best protected either by weaning and using lactated food altogether, or in any event by supplementing the natural milk of the child with lactated food. The wonderful preservative influence of lactated food is too well known to require any further statement. It is the purest and most nourishing thing that we can find to recommend to mothers."

The thousands of testimonies from the mothers of children who have been saved by lactated food are equally as convincing as the statements of the physicians. Here is what one mother of a healthy baby as can be Mrs. George Morley, of West Lynn, Mass., writes: "I send one of my baby's pictures to prove that lactated food is the best food for babies. I have used it since he was two weeks old and it agrees with him in every respect. He is now a healthy, happy, and fat baby. He was born November 7, 1892, and was 18 months old when the picture was taken."

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

A Finlander Found Dead on the Bank of the Mississippi.

Monday morning, Coroner Manson, of Grand Rapids, received a telegram from Swan River to come down at once and investigate the cause of the death of a man who had been found on the track near the river. In response to the telegram, Monday afternoon, Sheriff Toole, County Attorney Pratt and Coroner Manson drove to Mississippi Junction.

The dead man was a Finlander named Gus Johnson, about 34 years old. He was found on the bank of the Mississippi river about two miles northwest of Mississippi Junction, at 8:30 Monday morning. About that time another Finlander was walking along the track and discovered the dead man. He immediately went to the junction and gave the alarm. The result was a telegram to the coroner.

The deceased had been drinking pretty heavily for some days. When found he had two slight bruises on his head, which might have been caused either by blows or by falling.

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

HAR BEEN POSTPONED. There will be No Missabe Celebration on Labor Day.

The Missabe road celebration committee has finally decided to postpone the celebration. This was, in fact, the only thing that could be done. After the directors of the road suggested its postponement many of the merchants refused to have anything further with it, commercial bodies withdrew their assistance and the whole thing would have been a fizzle. The committee felt that matters had gone so far, that it would be impossible to postpone it. Some expenditure had been made in preparation and who should bear this in case there was no celebration was what perplexed the committee. However, when people withdrew their aid postponement was inevitable. The Trades and Labor assembly people are also considerably put out at the manner in which things have turned out.

SHOULD PAWN HER EARRINGS.

A Saginaw Lady Who Wants to Get Back to Her Home.

In the absence of Mayor d'Autremont, Private Secretary Walsh received Mrs. Tillie Moore, who called at the city hall office of his honor this morning. Tillie is a woman who came here some time back with a husband from Saginaw, Mich. That husband has been caught by the present financial depression and can find no labor. His good woman has friends in Michigan, and the object of her call was to inform the mayor that she cannot starve in Duluth, but must be sent back to Saginaw. She wore some stunning earrings and a neat brown gown and was quite imperative in her request for one unable to keep the wolf from gnawing the point off the front door step. Mr. Walsh referred the supplicant to Thomas Clark, the man who listens to the general public's tales of woe. He's investigating.

Baking Powders Before Congress.

The Pure Food bill before Congress would be a righteous measure for the people, and should become a law. The public want pure food, and in order to protect themselves must know what is adulterated. All adulterated preparations should be so branded, including Baking Powders containing Ammonia or Alum. Then if people want to dose themselves with "Absolutely Pure" Ammonia or Alum, they will do it knowingly. The public have been looking up the composition of Ammonia and Alum and they don't like the idea of eating either in their hot biscuit.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a Pure Cream of Tartar Powder; free from Ammonia, Alum, Lime or other adulteration. And every investigation, whether in the laboratory or kitchen, confirms and emphasizes its superiority in every way.

FISHING FOR SUCKERS

That is the Favorite Occupation of Some of the Land Locators Who Are Hanging Around.

One of Them Ran Across Tom Walsh and Unfolded Into Him a Brilliant Scheme.

A Number of Cancellation Cases Which Are to be Allowed a Rethinking by Agent Young.

Said Tom Walsh this morning: "There are a lot of land locators hanging around this town watching for suckers and they catch them every day, too. A lot of them are new fellows and they frequently make breaks that give them away. The other day I was standing out in front of the city hall. A stranger came up and said:

"Hello, young fellow."
"How are you, says."
"Are you clerking in a store here?" says he.

"Yes, I work in a grocery store down the street here away."
"Don't you want to take a claim?" queried the stranger.

"What's that?" asked I.
"A claim? Why, that's a whole lot of government land with lots of pine timber on it."

"Is it worth anything?" I continued.
"Well, I should say so. I've got a quarter section with 10,000,000 feet of big white pine on it. That's worth $7,000 to $10,000."

"By cracky!" ejaculated the alleged grocery clerk, "that's lots of money. And what will you charge to put me onto that snapp?"

"Only $200," said the locator, "but it must be cash in advance."
"That's cheap. Do I have to live on it?"

"Oh, no, you just swear that it's worth more for pine and timber than for raising crops. You pay me the $200. Then you get the numbers of the land, make your oath at the land office, then in four months you prove up and pay the government $2,500 an acre. As soon as you get a title any pine buyer will jump at the chance to give you $20,000 for as choice a claim as I can put you onto. Better take it, young fellow."

"Do I have to leave the store and go out and look at this land or build any house on it?"

"No, you don't have to do any building and you need not go out and look at the land if you don't want to. I can get a big map and lay it down on the floor. You can step across it and then take oath before the land office fellows that you've been over the land. See?"

"Well, that ain't an every day chance, I answered. "It beats selling groceries all hollow. Still, I don't like to pay $200 for something I have not seen. I don't know about taking it."

"Oh, well! I'll go out with you any day. I'll meet you in the morning and make all arrangements. Bring your $200."

"All right!" said I, repeating a place the locator named. I'll meet you there tomorrow morning."

"Tomorrow came," said Walsh today, "but the man the locator looked for never came."

WILL BE REHEARD.

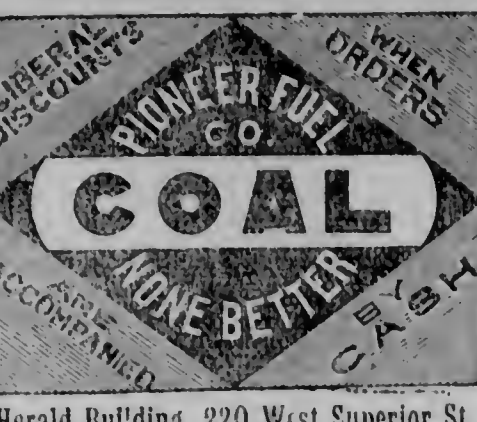

Special Agent Young Will Hear Some Cancellation Cases.

Special Agent Hugh F. Young yesterday commenced a rehearing of a batch of cancellation cases referred back to him by the department at Washington. There are seventeen of these cases and they were decided against the claimants some time ago by Special Agents Gee, Burton and de Lambert. They have been docketed for hearing as follows:

Frank Conell, Duluth, Aug. 31; Alexander McCurdy, Duluth, Sept. 1; Peter Johnson, Duluth, Sept. 1; John Haverly, West Duluth, Aug. 31; Fred J. Christopher, West Superior, Wis., Aug. 30; Oliver Jackson, address unknown, Sept. 7; Detlef Sahlgren, Duluth, Sept. 6; Albert I. Trosteth, Duluth, Sept. 6; Charles Steenemesser, Tower, Sept. 6; Joseph Legore, Duluth, Sept. 1; August Lingren, Ely, Sept. 3; William F. Wright, Duluth, Sept. 3; James L. Owen, Duluth, Sept. 1; John R. Olson, Duluth, Sept. 8; Ingebrigt Geydland, Duluth, Sept. 8; John A. Bell, Duluth, Sept. 2; Halvor Halvorson, Sept. 2.

Taken Up at Noon.

The Adams-O'Keefe land contest was not taken up until afternoon today. The contestant had three more witnesses to introduce, after which it was thought that the case would close.

A match game of pool for a purse of $250 has been arranged for Tuesday evening, at the billiard room in Jay Anderson's place. The players are John Enlund and H. Brown, the photographer.

About eight or nine of the members of the school committee of the receiving city convention have written Secretary Thompson that they favor a postponement of this fall's convention. The formal announcement will doubtless soon be made.

The young people of Lester Park Methodist Episcopal church are preparing to give an exhibition entitled "The District School."

At a late hour this forenoon, Paul Falstof took out a permit for the erection of a two-story frame dwelling on Sixth street, between Second and Third avenues west, at a cost of $1250.

The Court Filings.

The following notices were filed in Clerk Sinclair's office today:

The Minnesota Packing and Provision company against Milton A. Doughty and the Minneapolis Stock Yards and Packing company, order for judgment for plaintiff.

W. B. Patton et al. against P. H. McGarry et al., writ of attachment and levy on real estate at Merritt.

Albert Kito against Charles Sand, transcript of judgment from municipal court of Tower, $18.66.

Charles H. Davis against Fanny Clough et al., complaint in suit to quiet title to certain pine lands.

Men Are Needed.

Mayor d'Autremont is in receipt of the following letter, bearing date of Fertile, Aug. 27, and signed by P. J. Carcy:

Dear Sir: If there are any men in Duluth looking for work, about fifty can get employment at this point and ten miles west on the Great Northern at Beltrami. Threshing is starting and men are not too plenty, as they were ten days ago. Besides, the strike for larger towns. If you could arrange to get men started for those points at once, it would be a great favor. Wages are $1.50 per day. Some, though, are paying only $1.25. My postoffice is Beltrami.

Examinations Continuing.

The school exams who are so unfortunate as to be compelled to take the examinations are still grinding away today to the number of about twenty-five. It is expected that a large number will flock in tomorrow from the various parts over Uncle Sam's domains, where they have been spending vacation. The school board will hold a meeting Saturday evening.

A Man of Prominence.

C. N. Fay, of Chicago, who came up yesterday with the Merritt-Wetmore party, is a well known Chicagoan. He was at one time general manager of the Chicago telephone lines and has also been president of the Chicago Gas company, the great gas trust of the Windy City.

Want the Fool Killer.

A postal card bearing the following was received by Mayor d'Autremont yesterday: VIRGINIA, Aug. 29, 1893.

Dear Sir:—If you will send the fool killer to this town you will do us a great favor. Yours truly, O. K.

From the above it might be inferred that the recent trips to Virginia of Humane Henry Haskins and Col. George failed to satisfy the longings of people up there for good society.

He Drifted Back.

Joe Sheldon, a piano player in one of the dens of iniquity on St. Croix avenue, badly beat a soiled dove down there some months ago. He drifted back last night and now he's playing checkers with his nose behind the bars at the central police station.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustin have returned from a three weeks' visit to Cincinnati. Their many friends will be pleased to hear the car and most of the good for Mr. Gustin to make his home here permanent.

HOW TRAINS ARE ROBBED.

Experience of Dave Williams on a Recent Western Trip.

Dave Williams, yardmaster for the St. Paul & Duluth railway, is back from a Western trip. During his homeward journey he had an experience not down on his program and that was a meeting with the train robbers at Saultwater on the Northern Pacific about 950 miles west of here.

When the first shot was fired Mr. Williams was four coaches ahead of his car. He at once hastened to the rear and endeavored to tuck away his valuables. A fine gold watch was safely concealed and a roll of money had just been placed in his shoe when the robbers entered the car and the most horrible scenes of profanity and obscenity was kept up and the passengers, especially the ladies, heard things that would make a Mississippi river boatman blush for shame.

One robber stood guard with a Winchester, while two more, one on each side, passed through and reaped the harvest. Everything that came to their net was fish, money, watches, jewelry, revolvers, all being chucked into a sack. A big six-shooter would be shoved under the nose of a victim and the blank you blank blank blanky blank! the robber would say, "shell out!" Ladies who never before had experienced the smallest insult, met the grossest indignities.

Mr. Williams lost only $3.40. With a big gun under his nose he found it extremely easy to part with that amount. When the first shot was fired the express messenger, who had been through several previous robberies, opened his safe and commenced to conceal the money packages. As the result, from that source the bandits secured only about $350. The haul from the passengers was also unusually light.

When the robbers left the train a car porter opened fire, but so briskly was he answered and so close did the balls strike that the passengers commanded him to desist.

An Omaha Road Party.

A number of Omaha railway officials arrived at the head of the lakes this morning on General Manager Winters' private car. They are W. A. Scott, general superintendent; A. W. Trenholm, superintendent; C. W. Johnson, chief engineer; H. C. Hope, superintendent of telegraph and E. B. Ober, second assistant general freight agent. They are incidentally to inspect the Omaha's facilities for coal handling at these points. They spent this morning in Duluth.

Found the Wagon.

Julius Nelson was arrested by Detective Kenna this morning on the charge of sealing a wagon from the Costello hardware company. It disappeared from the firm's powder house four weeks ago and the police have been looking for it ever since. Detective Kenna spotted it this morning and lodged Nelson in jail.

Will Arrange a Match.

Pete Schumacher, champion middleweight catch-as-catch-can wrestler of the Pacific coast, who made to good a record here last spring, came in from Spokane yesterday accompanied by George Kessler, champion middleweight pugilist of Montana. Both are anxious to arrange matches in Duluth or Superior.

Coxhead, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hope, E. C. Forest, Wallace and Harry Coxhead, Misses Edith, Birdie, Belle and Nellie Hope, Eva Abbott, Jessie Martin and Lizzie Proctor. Chaperoned by W. J. Hope the party took in the sights of Duluth and had a jolly time generally. Before returning to St. Paul the party will visit Superior, Ashland and Bayfield.

Notice.

Parents of school children will please take notice that in section 33 of ordinance No. 31, of the ordinances of the city of Duluth, appears the following: "The health officer shall give certificates of vaccination to all children who have been vaccinated and require such certificates for admission to the public schools."

About 1900 children have complied with the requirement within the past three weeks. Those who have neglected to do so and any who have been misled by published notices calculated to obstruct this wise precautionary measure will attend to the matter at once. I will continue to vaccinate children unable to pay for this service free of charge. Room 1, Norris-McDougall block.

IN FAVOR OF SILVER

Mr. Vance Addressed the Senate Today in Opposition to Repeal of the Sherman Law.

This Movement is the Result of Conspiracy Among the Money Holders of the World.

President Cleveland Would Veto any Other Silver Bill, Then Why Repeal the Sherman Law?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—After some twenty minutes spent in the ordinary routine morning business of the senate (none of which was of public importance) the house bill to repeal part of the Sherman act was taken up, and Mr. Vance, Democrat of North Carolina, one of the minority members of the finance committee, addressed the senate in opposition to the bill.

Mr. Vance began his speech with the statement that the great law of supply and demand operated in regard to money just as it did to everything else. When money was abundant prices were high; when it was scarce the prices of all products were low. Therefore he that increased the abundance of money benefited production and enhanced wages and he that contracted or diminished the amount of this money depreciated everything that is for sale, including wages, though by reason of combinations and defensive measures in many parts of the world wages are affected less than products.

The effect upon the condition of mankind which would follow the destruction of one half the currency of the world, amounting in the aggregate to $7,000,000,000—it would be impossible accurately to describe. Still this process of destruction has been going on quietly since 1873 and its result is seen in prices lower in many things than has ever been known in the memory of man.

Mr. Vance then began a discussion of the history of the demonetization of silver, taking as his starting point the action of Great Britain in early 1816, which action on her part was necessary to enable her to pay in gold her debts to Jew Rothschilds. He then touched upon the adoption by Germany of the gold standard after the Franco-Prussian war, its effect upon the Latin union, and said that about the same time the United States ceased coinage by a fraud in legislation, when silver, which at that moment was at a premium over gold, began to decline and has continued to decline ever since.

In 1878 the indignation of the people forced its recognition and under the operations of the Bland-Allison act coinage was resumed, and a general act of discretion placed in the hands of the secretary of the treasury, a discretion that was used, as it always had been, against the coinage of silver. Still it stayed the downward course of silver and the people received it gladly. Every government that had demonetized silver had done so when it was at a premium and when the coinage was stopped in India the effort to have it stopped altogether in the United States had been made by the influence and money power of all the world and our own government. If coinage stopped here silver ceased to live throughout the commercial nations of the earth.

Let no man doubt that this movement for the repeal of the Sherman act was the result of a conspiracy among the money holders of the world. Our secretary of the treasury had said so. It had been repeatedly announced in the British house of commons and in the senate of the United States that the intention of this combination was to increase the value of gold in the hands of those who held it and in the hands of the money holders, by making them payable in gold. The method of the attack was by the creation of a panic.

When the platform denounced the Sherman act as a cowardly makeshift, did it mean a makeshift for free coinage of silver or the use of gold—a makeshift for bimetallicism or monometallism? If the framers of that plank meant that it was a cowardly makeshift for the free coinage of silver, was not this bill for its repeal, without a line in its place, a greater coward and a worse makeshift? If it was meant that it was a cowardly makeshift for gold, monometallism was not the language of the platform itself, both a cowardly and a lying makeshift for the truth? If the language of the platform taken altogether meant only that we are to oblige the bankers, bond holders and stock brokers, first by unconditional repeal accompanied only by a short stump speech in the belly of the act saying that it is our policy at some future time—the Lord knows when—to do something further—the Lord knows what—by carrying out the promises of the platform were not its makers and upholders of that declaration of policy and purposes open to the charge of insincerity and of so framing words as to deceive the people whose suffrages they were seeking. If the promises at Chicago were not good, how, he inquired, would the promises inserted in the law become any better?

The president in his message did not intimate that anything more was to be given and the promises contained in the bill were of so general a nature as to be evasive and indefinite. If the party intended to enact the laws it had promised it should do it now. If the party was acting in good faith it would carry out those pledges now and if the friends of that platform let go of what they had before they got something else, they would have to justify themselves before their people? If asked why he could not trust the future for the enactment of these laws which ought to come concurrently with the repeal of the Sherman act Mr. Vance said his answer would be more nearly the truth than theirs—he had no confidence.

Being once deceived, he could not accept any more promises as those of honest and responsible men. In reply to Senator Gordon's query why the friends of silver halted between the unconditional and conditional repeal, Mr. Vance said that by conditional repeal we united all true friends of bimetallicism. By the proposition of unconditional repeal that was impossible. Bimetallicism was the most popular, if not the most potential factor in the last campaign; it was the one plank common to all platforms. A comparison of votes in congress and in convention before and after the proposed repeal would form a contrast that would put to shame the wonder-inspiring patent medicine advertisements, "Before and after taking."

Referring to Senator Gordon's change of front, he said he believed that he will be condemned out of his own mouth and would be compelled to say like the wild-eyed, long-haired man who accompanied the temperance lecturer: "I goes along to serve as a frightful example." He called upon his friends to take heart and stand by the object of their love a little while longer. To insist upon repeal in the face of the admitted fact that the Sherman law was not the cause of the trouble was an acknowledgment that it could not be repealed without some substitute in cold blood and in times of reasonable prosperity.

In view of the attitude of the president, he knew and others knew that any bill providing for either the free coinage or the limited coinage of silver could not become a law and to permit the passage of this bill without attaching some other legislation to it—knowing that other legislation could not be secured independently and by itself—was to consciously surrender and turn their backs upon the pledges made to the people. If the Democrats did this they must do it with their eyes open, to the consequences and knowing that they were subjecting themselves to the serious accusation of all their constituents. If the Democratic party did this it would cease to be the people's friend and become the subservient tool of combined capital and the limited coinage of silver could not be the result of the thirty-three years of the Republican rule which they had always heretofore denounced as building up the combinations and corporations which have well nigh absorbed the wealth of the country.

After dwelling for a time upon the production of the two metals and their use as money by the different governments, Mr. Vance concluded his speech by a declaration favoring the free and unlimited coinage of silver and explained why he thought this could be accomplished and maintained.

The House.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—After the reading of the journal Mr. Weadock (Democrat of Michigan) offered a resolution postponing from tomorrow until September 15 the delivery of eulogies upon the late Judge Chipman, of Michigan. After the House had passed the resolution, Mr. Weadock moved that the House adjourn at that date. He had hoped that the country would have been relieved of the consideration of the rules was then resumed.

FEARS FOR HER SAFETY.
No Word of a West Indian Steamer Long Overdue.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Atlas line steamship Alvo sailed from this port Aug. 16 for West Indian ports with a dozen passengers and a general cargo. From the time she passed outside Sandy Hook until the present moment she has been unreported and the gravest fears are felt for her safety.

The first of several scheduled on her papers is Gonaves, Hayti. The passage from New York to that port usually takes the Alvo from six to seven days. The course is directly in the path of the late hurricanes and this fact causes alarm at her non-arrival. The passengers are wealthy residents of the West Indies. So far as known there are no residents of this country among them. They are returning home for the winter and all of them carry many valuables in their baggage.

The Alvo is valued at $250,000 and is fully insured in England. It is believed that her cargo, said to be very valuable, is also underwritten. The vessel had a crew of sixty officers and seamen.

STREET RAILWAY PROFITS.
Dividends of Nearly $70 a Share Declared in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Directors of the Chicago city railway at their regular quarterly meeting declared dividends on the stock which constitute an aggregate almost unparalleled in the history of dividend-paying enterprises.

They ordered the payment of a regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent and an extra dividend of 2 per cent, both of course in cash. In addition they voted to distribute $4,500,000 in Alley L. stock to stockholders and also to divide among them $3,000,000 of Alley L. bonds.

With Alley L. stock figured on a basis of $70 a share, and the bonds of that company estimated at $88, the dividends declared amount to nearly $70 a share.

FIGHTING FOR FOOD.
Terrible Distillation Among Negroes in South Carolina.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—A Times special from Augusta, Ga., says that the negroes driven to Port Royal by the storm from the surrounding islands and the rice and cotton plantations are so destitute and so badly in need of something to eat that they have resorted to fighting among themselves for food.

Several were killed in a fight for provisions. Those who are not given immediate relief become rebellious, and it is a difficult task to keep the sufferers in subjection. As soon as one negro gets some supplies, he is attacked for his share and considerable food has been wasted by these battles.

Fatal Explosion.
POMEROY, O., Sept. 1.—A boiler in Probst & Son's furniture factory blew up this morning, killing James Starkey, the engineer, and wrecking the building.

Agent at White Earth.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—R. M. Allen, of Illinois, has been appointed Indian agent at the White Earth agency in Minnesota.

HIS MIND AFFECTED.

A Millionaire Iron Merchant and Banker of Pittsburgh Who Made a Visit to Duluth.

He Was in Charge of a Professional Nurse and His Wife Did Not Know It.

When She Learned of it She Starled After the Couple and Found Them in St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 1.—A. M. Byers, of Pittsburgh, Pa., registered at the Windsor hotel last week, arriving from Duluth, where he had spent several days. He was accompanied by a professional nurse from Chicago, Mrs. E. Dill. It is learned that Mr. Byers has been suffering from an affection of the mind and was sent to Chicago to be treated by Dr. Tallman, of that city. He was sent to the Northwest in charge of Mrs. Dill.

Mr. Byers showed evidence of an almost complete loss of memory. His wife was left behind and it is said knew nothing of her husband being accompanied by Mrs. Dill. When she learned of it she came direct to St. Paul, and Dr. Tallman had to be sent for before matters could be satisfactorily explained to her. Mrs. Byers when interviewed denied this part of the story.

All the parties left for Chicago Wednesday night, Mr. Byers being reported as not so well as he had been a few days before. Mr. Byers is a millionaire iron merchant and banker of Pittsburgh.

WAS TOWED INTO PORT.
The Steamer Sarnia Found Adrift in Mid-Ocean.

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 1.—The Montevideo, Capt. Calvert, from Montreal, towed to anchor in the harbor early this morning the steamer Sarnia, which she picked up adrift in mid-ocean. All the passengers aboard the Sarnia are well and the cattle are uninjured. The Sarnia sailed from Montreal July 29. On August 4 she broke her thrust shaft. Efforts to repair the damage were fruitless and for twenty-two days the vessel drifted helplessly.

As the weather remained calm the passengers experienced little physical inconvenience, although they suffered keen anxiety after two weeks had passed without the sight of a sail. On August 25 the Montevideo was sighted. She took the Sarnia in tow about 100 miles from Cork. The rest of the voyage was uneventful. The Sarnia now awaits the arrival of the tug boats which will take her to Liverpool.

THE MARYLAND SENATORS.
They Are Urged to Support the Voorhees Repeal Bill.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—The corn and flour exchange has adopted the following address to Maryland senators in congress:

"Believing that the present depression in the business affairs of the country is the want of confidence existing in financial circles would be greatly relieved by the enactment into law of the bill introduced in the senate by the finance committee, the Baltimore corn and flour exchange asks your support and influence for the prompt passage of that bill. The declaration appended to the repealing clause of that bill, that the policy of the United States is to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money of equal and exchangeable value, such equality to be secured through international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as will insure the parity in value of the coins of the two metals, is in accord with the principles enunciated in the platforms of both parties and meets with our hearty approval."

ARRESTS IN NICARAGUA.
People Hostile to the Government Being Imprisoned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—A special to the World from Managua, Nicaragua, says: Arrests of persons hostile to the government continue and there are 150 prisoners in the barracks. Seditious sheets are being distributed among the people and martial law is threatened.

Firing early this morning in the artillery barracks gave rise to a report of a general massacre of the prisoners but it is now said that it was simply an execution of twelve political prisoners, one of them a priest who has been a convict in political work. The president has called on the inhabitants for $500,000 but it would be difficult to find that much cash in the whole country.

The government has decided to take measures against its enemies. The frontier is threatened from Honduras.

PROCTOR KNOTT FOR HAWAII.
The Noted Kentuckian Offered the Mission a Second Time.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—[Special to The Herald.]—Ex-Governor Proctor Knott has been tendered the position of minister at Hawaii for the second time. He is here to talk with the president about it, and it is said he will accept this time.

Shot His Wife.
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 1.—While playing with a revolver that he did not know was loaded yesterday, Leo Stafford shot and fatally wounded his wife. They had been married but six weeks.

Double Tragedy.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 1.—Alonzo Clark, a race horse owner living at No. 316 Kosuth avenue, after shooting and dangerously wounding his wife, committed suicide this morning.

BACK TO THE CAPITAL

President Cleveland, Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth returned to Washington once more this morning.

Everybody Feeling First Rate and the Sojourn at Gray Gables Was Beneficial to All.

Grover's Eye Was Bright and His Complexion Clear and He Looked Vigorous and Strong.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Cleveland, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland, their daughter Ruth, nurse and maid, arrived in Washington this morning at 4:10 from Buzzard's Bay, Mass. over the Pennsylvania road in a special car attached to train No. 23, which left New York at 9 o'clock last night. The party remained on the train until 7 o'clock, when they were met by Private Secretary Thurber with carriages and driven to the White House in a drenching rain.

The president and Mrs. Cleveland will not go to Woodley, their suburban residence, today. Mr. Thurber was afterwards asked as to the general health of the party, and he replied that everybody was feeling first rate and the sojourn at Gray Gables had been beneficial to all. Mr. Cleveland, in particular, in excellent spirits; his eye was bright and complexion clear and he looked vigorous and strong.

A MOB AFTER A BRUTE.

Drove His Wife Nearly Crazy and Assaulted Her Maid.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Jesse Harlan took a dose of carbolic acid Monday evening, driven desperate by her husband's ill treatment and preference for Lily Tigrand, Mrs. Harlan's maid. Tuesday night Harlan, according to Miss Tigrand's story, assaulted her repeatedly by threatening both her and his dying wife with death.

The authorities captured Harlan and brought him to Squire Cunningham's office, where a mob attempted to take him. The officers, after a hard struggle, took Harlan to Sigourney. He was badly injured. The girl has made several attempts to kill herself. It was thought that the mob will make a successful attempt to get Harlan.

Miners Return to Work.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—More than 6000 miners resumed work in South Wales yesterday. Their return means practically the collapse of the strike in South Wales and Monmouthshire. Some 40,000 men still hold out in South Wales and Monmouthshire, but they are yielding to the terms of the owners. It is understood that in no case have the men who went back to work yesterday obtained the 20 per cent increase in wages, for which they struck.

Cholera in England.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The epidemic in the Lincolnshire seaport, Grimsby, has been declared officially to be Asiatic cholera, after having been called a choleraic disease for many days. Several cases have ended fatally. The authorities of Grimsby believe that the cholera was brought to the city by immigrants from the infected ports. Thursday a seaman came from cholera aboard a vessel off Grimsby.

Union Pacific Bonds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Messrs. Vermilye & Co. have formed a syndicate to underwrite the extension of the Union Pacific sinking fund 3 per cent bonds, maturing today, and the Union Trust company will advertise to purchase bonds of any holders who may desire to sell.

Reduction in Wages.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1.—A general reduction in wages at the Allis company's works was inaugurated today. The wages of the office force were cut 20 per cent. The 300 men who have been laid off will not be taken back, and the outlook is favorable for a still further reduction in force.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, whooping cough, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying the organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is a telegraphic system, as will be proven by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric currents conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom, they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., L. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the later theories, has now realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on this principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists at the price of $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

He drew the line. "My answer is final, Mr. Whackster," haughtily replied the young woman. "The idea is absurd!"

"Haven't you any use for me, Miss Gertrude?"

"None, sir! What have you ever seen in me that has led you to suppose I would listen to a proposal of marriage from you?"

"I don't know," answered the young man reflectively. "What have you seen in me that causes you to reject me so scornfully? I think I am not mistaken in the conclusion that you reject me with more or less scorn."

"You are not mistaken, Mr. Whackster, and I am perfectly willing that you should know the reason. You seem to have no worthy ambition, no definite purpose, no object in life. You are a drone in society. You have wasted in trivial amusement the years that other young men in your station would have devoted to fitting themselves for a high and noble destiny. You have no conception of the joys that reward the man who consecrates himself to a lofty ideal."

"Perhaps I am," rejoined the young man, reaching for his hat and confronting her as he rose to go with a look as proud and haughty as her own. "Perhaps I am, Miss Gertrude Plunkitt, but I don't wear a pink shirt!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Just Like Hanner."

"Hey, hey," he called in front of a Grand River avenue grocery the other day as he stopped his team.

A clerk went out to the edge of the walk to see what was wanted.

"What aigs worth?"

"How many have you got?"

"Leven dozen."

"Bring 'em in, and I'll see."

The farmer turned around in his seat and looked the wagon box over, but there was nothing to be seen but a bridle, which needed mending.

"Bring 'em in," continued the clerk.

"Jest like Jackson! but I hain't got a blamed one!" exclaimed the farmer.

"Here I've driv nine miles to sell 'leven dozen aigs, and the aigs is to home!"

"Forgot 'em, eh?"

"That's what I did! Hanner brought 'em out to the barn and set 'em down on the fanning mill and hitched up and never looked to see if they was in the wagon! Jest like Hanner! She never knowed nuthin to begin with, and she's knowed less every day since. Waal, if they hain't here they hain't, and I'll take a plug of tobacco and git my bridle fixed and jog back."—Detroit Free Press.

Afraid to Wake Up.

Little Johnny wasn't lazy, but he did hate to get up in the morning. Johnny came down very late, and his mother said to him:

"Johnny, why did you not rise earlier this morning?"

Johnny looked rather sheepish, but he was equal to the occasion.

"Mother," said the rogue, "I dreamed that I found $500, and me and Charley Smith were having such fun spending it that I was afraid to wake up until I had got rid of all the money."—American Traveler.

HARRY C. IVES KILLED

The Assistant to the First Vice President of the Santa Fe Road Suddenly Killed.

Was One of the Fourteen Persons Who Perished in the Wreck at Chester, Mass.

Mr. Ives Formerly Lived in Minneapolis and Was Married in That City Years Ago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Harry C. Ives, who was among the fourteen persons killed at Chester, Mass., by the falling of a train through a bridge, was the assistant to the first vice president of the Santa Fe railroad and was well known in railroad circles through the Northwest. He left Chicago on the Boston limited at 10:30 o'clock a. m. Wednesday on a vacation trip of one week and for the purpose of bringing home his 15-year-old daughter, who had been visiting friends in Maine. His wife and two younger children reside in this city at No. 413 Elm street.

Mr. Ives came here three years ago from Minneapolis and was general purchasing agent for the Santa Fe road for some time and soon after his arrival was made assistant to the first vice president. He took his vacation as an accommodation to the first vice president, who intended to leave next week. He was 41 years old and began his railroad career about fifteen years ago. He married Miss Jessie Griffin in Minneapolis. His father and mother lived with him here.

Mr. Ives was highly esteemed by all who knew him and his untimely death will be a shock to his many friends in railroad and social circles. It was at first reported that Halsey C. Ives, chief of the bureau of fine arts at the fair, was the victim of the wreck, and his friends were much worried until the assurance was given that it was not the well-known chief of that department.

A REMEDY FOR STRIKES.

Profit Sharing With Employees Is Believed to be the Best Plan.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1.—At the meeting of the American Bar association last night, U. M. Rose, of Arkansas, delivered an interesting speech on "Law of Trust and Strikes." He heard much in these days of conflict between capital and labor, he said, that many are led to believe that the phenomenon is peculiar to our age, or it is assuming threatening proportions unknown to former times; but investigation will serve to show that these apprehensions are not well founded.

The labor problem is probably no more capable of solution than that of squaring the circle. It troubled those who came before us, and it will trouble those who are to come after us. As a remedy for strikes, Mr. Rose advocated profit sharing with employees, a plan, he said, that had been successfully adopted with some variations in detail by the Pennsylvania, the Erie and the Pennsylvania railroad companies.

After strongly denouncing trusts and showing the pernicious effects they had on the workingman, Mr. Rose concluded by saying: "It too often happens in our country that important social and economic questions fall into the domain of party politics, after which reason and common sense are too often banished and their place is usurped by idle declamation. Fortunately, in the present instance, there is a feeling common to men of all present parties that the evils that I have mentioned ought to be suppressed, and in view of the past history of our institutions, we can but hope that the predicting satisfactory results to be attained at no distant day."

FRANCE AND SIAM.

Queries in the British Parliament Receive Official Answers.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—In the house of commons yesterday, Sir Richard Temple, Conservative, of the Kingston division of Surrey, asked the government whether or not France was keeping her pledge in respect to the independence of Siam.

Sir Edward Grey, under secretary of the foreign office, replied that France has not withdrawn its assurance as to Siam's independence, and Lord Dufferin has gone back to Paris this week to resume negotiations on the lines accepted some time ago by France.

"Then the government adheres to the policy of maintaining the independence of Siam?" inquired Sir George Curzon, Conservative, of the Southampton division of Lancashire.

"The government has held to a neutral zone between British and French territories in Asia as an international necessity," said Sir Edward. "We have no reason to doubt the sincerity of France's assurances that Siam's independence will be maintained."

Will Be Reorganized.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 1.—The Royal Sewing Machine company made an assignment in favor of its creditors last evening. The liabilities are $100,000 and the assets about $40,000. The company has a large plant and has done an extensive business. It will probably be reorganized and resume business soon.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 1.—Sensational reports detrimental to the credit of the Peoria Distillers were sent out by wire from this city Thursday evening and were also published in the local papers yesterday. Vice President John Beggs says there is not a word of truth in the report. On the contrary, the company, he declares, has no trouble in regard to money to meet all their obligations as they become due and they are being promptly met.

There are no rebates due and there is not the slightest intention of postponing the payment of any of them. Checks have been made out for those due and they were mailed yesterday. Mr. Beggs knows of no movement for the appointment of a receiver, and he can see no occasion for one so long as the company is in as good financial condition as it is today.

CHANGING THE TARIFF.

Arrangements That Are Being Made for Giving Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The decision of the committee on ways and means to give a hearing to persons interested in the preparation of a tariff bill between the fourth and twentieth of September does not exhaust the intentions of the committee in that regard. Chairman Wilson has been instructed to present a resolution for consideration of the house, authorizing the committee to pursue investigations of the several subjects over which they have special charge. The expenses of those investigations will be paid out of the contingent fund of the house upon the warrant of the chairman of the committee.

Vice President John Beggs says there is not a word of truth in the report. On the contrary, the company, he declares, has no trouble in regard to money to meet all their obligations as they become due and they are being promptly met.

There are no rebates due and there is not the slightest intention of postponing the payment of any of them. Checks have been made out for those due and they were mailed yesterday. Mr. Beggs knows of no movement for the appointment of a receiver, and he can see no occasion for one so long as the company is in as good financial condition as it is today.

CHANGING THE TARIFF.

Arrangements That Are Being Made for Giving Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The decision of the committee on ways and means to give a hearing to persons interested in the preparation of a tariff bill between the fourth and twentieth of September does not exhaust the intentions of the committee in that regard. Chairman Wilson has been instructed to present a resolution for consideration of the house, authorizing the committee to pursue investigations of the several subjects over which they have special charge. The expenses of those investigations will be paid out of the contingent fund of the house upon the warrant of the chairman of the committee.

A Triple Tragedy.

CADDIS, I. T., Sept. 1.—News reached here last yesterday morning that Mrs. Leon Cochran had been killed and another woman had been murdered and several hundred dollars stolen.

The Situation in Samoa.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—By the Alameda it is learned that there has been no change in the situation in Samoa. Matafa has been taken to Union island. A number of his followers have been imprisoned or fined. Matafa will remain on Union island until his final disposition is decided upon by the three powers.

Justifiable Killing.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 1.—George Olson, who killed his brother-in-law, Larry Cavanagh, at Cripple Creek, Thursday, was released yesterday. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide.

A Dead Heat.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, Sept. 1.—The main race yesterday between Domino and Dobbin for $2,200, resulted in a dead heat.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH.
Entered at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second class mail matter.

The Weather.
U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Sept. 1.—A storm of light drizzle is centered north of Duluth, moving southward, and cast, having moved down from north of Minnesota to where it is now. An area of high pressure covers the western portion of the country, with two centers, one over Northern Iowa and the other over Colorado and Wyoming.

Light showers have been scattered over the country from Tennessee to the far Northwest, but have now ceased and the prospects are for continued fair weather for the remainder of the week.
The temperature has risen in all sections except the Northwest, where it is still cloudy, or has fallen slightly. The highest is at Knoxville, Tenn., the lowest 40° at Seattle, Wash. The highest temperature at Duluth is 70°.

The shower of rain here last night measured at 1.10 in. The highest temperature here today was 80°, the lowest last night 64°.

DULUTH, Sept. 1.—Local Forecast: Fair; slight change in temperature; northwest to north and northeast winds.

B. H. BARNES,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Forecast till 8 a. m.
tomorrow for Wisconsin: Fair; cooler tonight;
northwesterly winds; diminishing with light frosts in exposed localities in northern portions.
Minnesota: Fair; cooler tonight; continuing; slightly rising temperature; light frosts tonight;
temperatures 80° to 85°.

Yes, Advertising
In Any Paper Pays,
If Done Judiciously!

Nine years ago I inserted my first ad. in The Evening Herald, the great family journal, and have continuously kept it there, believing I got greater returns than from any other medium published here. In my last Great Half Price Sale for my personal satisfaction, I asked customers how they knew I was selling at half price. The reply of 65 per cent was, "I read it in The Herald." Hence, you see, my ad appears daily only in The Herald.

The Street Railway Strike.
The following words from a recent issue of the New York Advertiser emphasize the advice offered by The Herald last night to both parties: "concerned in the street railway troubles in this city:
"Employers should not seize upon the "opportunity offered by our business troubles to cut down wages unless they are absolutely compelled to do so, and workmen should be willing, whenever that necessity exists, to accept that just reduction which will enable the employers to keep their shops open. Each should be willing to help the other in this emergency." If this advice were generally followed, both labor and capital would receive justice, and there would not be any strikes.

The strike in this city has paralyzed the street car service today. The people have been much inconvenienced, by being suddenly deprived of the usual means of traveling between their homes and their places of business. It is a fact, however, that many of those who were compelled to walk this morning declared they would do so cheerfully for weeks if it would result in the street railway employees securing living wages. Popular sentiment is with the men in their protest against the reduction of their wages to the very low point proposed by the company.

The Herald would renew its advice that the parties concerned get together and agree on a compromise. It is understood the employees are willing to compromise. The company must also be ready to make concessions. The people of Duluth expect that it will, so that the difficulty may be speedily adjusted. The restoration of the transfer system would add to the receipts of the company. Its abolition resulted in a decrease in the receipts. Now let the company restore the transfers and reduce the employees' wages only 10 per cent, instead of 15 or 20 per cent, and it will find that it will be ahead financially—much further ahead than it is in its present course.

It is not right to ask any men to work at the wages proposed by the reduced scale, and the Duluth Street Railway company, should not ask it. Let the matter be compromised.

The senators must talk, of course, but really they should have some compassion for the long-suffering public and refrain.
Their course is so plain that it is not necessary to discuss it. Acquiescence in the action of the house on the Sherman law is the only thing left open to the senate. The house spoke with the voice of the people, and the senate dare not disregard it.

The Best Medium.
It is with a pardonable degree of pride that The Herald presents today the statements of leading merchants of Duluth regarding the successful results which they have attained by advertising in the columns of this paper. These strong words of endorsement of The Herald's great value as an advertising medium do not come from any one line or business, but men in all branches of retail business testify to this effect.

The fact that the endorsements are not mere empty words is fully demonstrated from day to day by the liberal use which these merchants make of The Herald's advertising columns. They practice what they preach. They place their advertisements with the mediums which promise largest returns, and the best medium in Duluth, they unanimously assert, is The Evening Herald.

The cause of The Herald's superiority as an advertising medium is no secret.
It is patent to all observers. The Herald has more than twice the bona fide circulation of any other paper at the head of Lake Superior. This is the reason that it pays to advertise in The Herald.

The Cherokee Strip.
The dispatches are filled daily with accounts of the preparations that are being made for the opening of the Cherokee strip and with stories of the rush of people to the boundary line, ready to make a dash into the coveted territory as soon as the signal has been given. It is a repetition of the scenes witnessed when Oklahoma was thrown open to settlement, and more recently when another reservation in South Dakota was opened.

The Cherokee strip will be opened to settlers about the middle of next month.
It embraces a little more than 6,000,000 acres, which more than equals the combined areas of the District of Columbia, Rhode Island, Delaware and Connecticut. It is longer than Vermont by two square miles. Its domain exceeds that of New Jersey by 877 square miles. It contains 100 square miles more than the state of New Hampshire. It is longer than Massachusetts by 177 square miles.
It is a trifle more than one-seventh the size of Missouri and is only a little less than one-eighth as large as Kansas.

These comparisons, which are taken from the Kansas City Star, furnish some idea of the magnitude of the new domain which will pass under the influence of civilization and be devoted to the uses of agriculture as the result of the president's recent proclamation. In point of its productive possibilities this fertile realm far exceeds the New England commonwealths, which it rivals in size. It is said to be capable of sustaining a greater population than either Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, or Rhode Island. Combined with Oklahoma it will make a territory of considerably more than 10,000,000 acres. It is highly favored by nature, possessing a soil and climate of great excellence. It is destined in a very few years to be converted into fruitful farms and to be covered over with populous towns and flourishing villages. In future years it will be another great Western state that will no doubt play an important part in the politics of the country.

The Iron Trade.
One week ago the Iron Trade Review said: "The exhaustion of stocks on all hands indicates that the country is ripe for a buying movement in every description of iron and steel." This is a fact of importance that is being felt in the iron business of the country.

The same Journal said yesterday, one week after it made the above remark:
"It would be hard to define the difference between the conditions of the iron market today and those prevailing one week ago. To say that the iron market is one week nearer improvement would be a safe conservative statement and that is all the situation warrants outside of what is to be found in the better feeling produced by the Wilson bill vote in the house and the more comfortable condition of the banks. As money grows more plenty there will be increasing activity, but there are indications that in most departments of the iron business the trouble is the greater one of lack of orders. That is what is keeping many Western mills in idleness."

With the return of confidence, however, enterprises requiring material furnished by the iron and steel plants, which have been temporarily postponed by the general depression, will be resumed and this will cause the giving of orders that will put life into the iron and steel business. It is not to be expected that the iron trade will experience a sudden boom, but there is little doubt that from this time onward it will steadily re-

AMERICAN STORE.

Tomorrow
Is the shopping day for the ladies. The day for little things. A bit of lace or ribbon; a pair of gloves; a handkerchief, and innumerable other things so necessary for the close of the week. And we take great pride in knowing that the busy appearance of our store on a Saturday is caused by the fact that every article is a good value.

No Prevarication Here will be complete with our usual fine selection of the latest styles and patterns.

It is Appreciated.
That our fur department is being appreciated by the buyers of furs, a glance at our order book would show. We are taking orders each day for garments of every description, and would advise intending purchasers to leave their orders as soon as possible.

Now that the railroads have made a longer any reason why men out of work should not get it there. There is a big crop to be harvested and the laborers are scarce.

No Extra Session Wanted.
Winona Herald: There is no more necessity for the calling of an extra session of the legislature than there is for Donnelly to be elected governor of Minnesota. If St. Paul has a plethora of unemployed she is abundantly able to take care of them. In other parts of the state there exists among the people no more destitution than usual, which is scarcely any at all. Regarding an extra session of the legislature our sanity neighbor is always ripe for such an event. The hotels, the boarding houses, the saloon-keepers and the professional lobbyists are ever ready to welcome the legislature and its attendants with open arms and rapacious jaws.

LABOR'S CELEBRATION

The Trades and Labor Assembly Completed a Number of Details Connected With it, Last Evening.

Line and Order of March Which Will be Carried Out—Merchants Asked to Close.

List of the Sports and Games and the Prizes to be Awarded to the Winners.

The Trades and Labor Assembly held a meeting last evening to arrange such details for Labor day as might come up. Several committees were appointed to look after matters not yet arranged. A full and free discussion of minor matters and presentation of suggestions was indulged in. Children under 12 years of age accompanied by their parents, will be carried free on the short line trains running to the Fond du Lac picnic grounds. All between 12 and 15 years of age, will be charged 15 cents.

After the delegates from the street car employees union had made reports, the assembly voted to give all the support possible to the members of that union, should they find it necessary to strike.

Jos. Harmon reported that all irregularities in the shop of Burrell & Little have been adjusted with the Tin Sheet Iron and Corrugated Workers' union.

After the assembly adjourned, the committee on general arrangements met and arranged the line of march for Labor day. Among the most important special committees appointed, was one with five members to wait upon the merchants and induce them to sign an agreement to close their business places all or a part of next Monday.

Morris Griffin is the chief marshal of the day and the parade will be divided into three divisions as follows:

FIRST DIVISION.
H. Gazette, Marshal.
Platoon of Police.
Trades and Labor Assembly.
Clergymen's International Union.
Electrical Workers' Union.
Journemen Stonecutters' Association.
F. Moore, Marshal.
Longshoremen's Union.
Rethelers' Union.
Retail Clerks' Union.
Plumbers and Gasfitters' Union.
Tinsmiths' Union.
Journemen's Union.
Tin, Sheet Iron and Corrugated Workers.
Carpenters and Joiners' Union.
Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen.
International Machinists' Union.

The first division will form at Sixth avenue west and First street, and march to Fifth avenue west and First street and "third at Fourth avenue west and First street. The parade will move homeward at 3:30 o'clock, marching east by First street to Second avenue east, thence to Superior street, then west to Ninth avenue, and finally to the depot on Superior street to the Carpenters' hall in the Parsons' block, No. 18 West Superior street, and disbanding.

Mrs. Eva McDonald, Valued, of Minneapolis, will be the speaker of the day. A great list of sports and games has been prepared and a large number of prizes will be given. They are as follows:

Committee race—First prize, one box cigars, Fred Schmitt, of West Superior; second prize, bottle of wine, John Turzotte, of Duluth.

Tug war between Duluth and Superior—Prize, case of beer from A. Fitzer & Co., and box of cigars from Simon Clark.

The Wheat Receipts Aggregate About Forty Million Bushels, Slightly Less Than the Previous Year.

Production of Flour Shows a Large Increase, Indicating the Growth of the Milling Business.

The crop year came to a close last night, and the showing which Duluth makes as a primary market is very creditable, considering the depressed condition of the grain trade here during the twelve months that have just ended. The receipts and shipments are not as large as during the previous year, but the crop year of 1892-3 was of a phenomenal character. Outside of that year, all previous records are surpassed. The receipts here were fully 40,000,000 bushels, but the records show slightly smaller figures. This is because a considerable quantity of wheat that was taken by the mills was never reported, much being bought to arrive and not passing through the elevators. The following are statements in detail of the receipts and shipments of grain and the production, receipts and shipments of flour for the year now closed, compared with the corresponding months of the preceding crop year:

NOT A WHEEL TURNING

Duluth Streets Today All as Quiet as Those of a Canadian City on Sunday.

No Street Cars are Running and More Than That the Entire System is Grounded.

No Violence Will be Offered, Say the Men, and They are Quiet and Orderly.

The employees in all departments of the Duluth street railway went out this morning and as a consequence the street cars are still in the sheds. Not a wheel was turned and Superior street looked as peaceful and quiet as a country village compared with its usual noise and bustle.

The men have been the very models of orderliness. Not a sign of disturbance, intonation or intention to use force was apparent anywhere. Shortly after 5 o'clock the conductors, motormen and shop employees gathered at their posts as usual. Mr. Wardwell is still sick and Mr. Mendenhall was on hand to represent the street railway company. As the decision of the meeting held last night—or rather this morning, for it was past midnight before they got down to business and daybreak before they adjourned—it was announced that if the company still maintained its position the men would not work. Mr. Mendenhall said the company would stand firm, and the men did not work.

The only employees to remain at their posts, aside from the office force, were the engineers, who are working under contract and anyway would not endanger the powerful and costly machinery by deserting it. However, it is doubtful if they would start the machinery with other than the regular men.

No attempt was made to take out a car. Had there been, the strikers say there would have been no molestation and their attitude bears out this statement. Whether the company had men in readiness is uncertain. The strikers say they know nothing of threatened importation of green hands. They feel certain, however, that no skilled men could be induced to handle cars and others would give but sorry service at best. It had been stated that quite a percentage of the employees wanted to work under any conditions imposed by the company, that they could not afford to remain idle and would fall back on the old saw that "half a loaf is better than no bread." If there were any of these "half loafers" they kept their mouths shut and The Herald was unable to find one.

However, had there been men ready and willing no cars could have been run unless by mule or other animal power in the old-time slow and primitive fashion. The entire trolley system was as weak and powerless as a babe as dead as an Egyptian mummy. There was steam; the fires were kept up and the big engines could be started with a simple turn. Even the dynamo were ready to do their daily generative work. But it is not the mission of the Duluth Street Railway company to pay Mother Earth full of the peculiar kind that ever refuses to do man's bidding unless restricted to its proper channels.

The wires had been grounded and very well grounded, too. If it were possible for everybody to be more reticent upon one point than another this particular point was evidently the one. It was not even clear that the men knew what a wire was. One of Mr. Mendenhall's lieutenants acknowledged that there was an arrangement of wires and poles that had something to do with propelling cars, and someone had told somebody else, who told him that something was the matter with it but his ideas about it were very dim and hazy indeed.

"Is it true that the system is grounded?" was asked a motorman.

"Well, I don't know much about it, there's a committee in charge of the matter," he replied with perhaps more haste than discretion.

"Would it take long to fix it?"

"No; if the boys go back to work fifteen minutes would do. If they don't go back to work? Oh, well, now, I don't know anything about that, you know."

The truth is that the men who did the job could undo it quickly, but the company might not be able to find the leaks in two weeks.

An electrician who is in no way connected with the street railway but knows all about the system, gave this information. "To an electrician the matter is simple. The trolley is sustained by wires running from iron poles on both sides of the street. On top the poles are insulated caps and wire wires are insulated a few feet from the pole. Now any line man could take a 'jumper' and connect the iron pole below the insulated cap with the live wire—scrapping off the insulation if necessary and there you are; the current would go direct to the ground of course. Two or three such leaks would demoralize the entire system. These 'jumpers,' if applied artistically, could only be seen upon close inspection. Figure out how long it would take to climb and examine every pole; deliver the element of chance that they might be lucky and find the right place at once, and you can tell as well as I how long it would take the company to get the system in shape. I would say just as an off hand guess, mind you, that it might be done by competent men in say from ten hours to four or five weeks.

"Then the system could be paralyzed right in the power house. Transfer couple of plugs and there you are again plenty of electricity lying around loose but no power available for rapid or other transit. It's dead easy, you see. There are fifty men in Duluth, any one of whom could do the job in a twinkling. I should hate to be one of fifty to have to undo it."

At 6 o'clock the executive committee was in consultation with Mr. Mendenhall. This committee is composed of the foremen of the Superior and Fourth street lines, foreman of the shops, Conductor Gould, Mr. Hurl, who is an officer of the union, and Mr. Thorn, an armature man. Mr. Mendenhall found himself with an intelligent, sober and sturdy sextette.

The cut proposed by the company was 20 per cent for all men earning above $60 per month; for those earning $60 and less about 16.23 per cent. There are nearly 200 men affected and of that number fully nine-tenths come within the last named cut. The new scale would be from $60 to $50; from $55 to $45; from $50 to $43. In addition to this it was proposed to cut down the force by taking off cars as follows: Woodland, 1, leaving 3; Lakeside, 3, leaving 4; West Duluth, 2 or 3, leaving 13 or 14. This curtailment of service would throw about 20 men out of work.

The men proposed as a compromise to split the difference and accept a deduction of about 8 1/2 per cent. This Mr. Mendenhall refused to do. He said he did not know where the money was coming from to pay them. The matter of transfers was then discussed. It is claimed that patronage has fallen off 3000 fares per day since the transfer system was abandoned. The men thought that upon restoring the transfers, increased patronage would more than offset the difference in wages. This proposition Mr. Mendenhall also refused.

Then the men offered to loan the company money, say $10 per month per man. That is, the wages would stand, but at present the men would allow the company to retain $10 per month. Mr. Mendenhall said he did not know that he could get the money to pay them even in six months.

"We will take bonds," said the spokesman.

"We have no bonds for sale," curtly replied Mr. Mendenhall.

It was no use, both sides stood firm and the committee withdrew. The men say they will stick it out; that they will use no force, but they are certain no cars will be taken out unless by the regular crews.

Mr. Mendenhall was seen by a Herald man at the power house. "The cars are here ready to go out when the boys will take them, you see," said he, and the reporter's eyes, following his gesture, saw a whole host of cars. "When will that be?" "I don't know. The committee is considering now. The reduction proposed is 15 per cent. We will not compromise. We expect no trouble. We are running cars. You can hear the engine; steam is up ready. Yes, I understand there is something wrong about the wires. Not much, I guess."

The street car people claim they have been losing money. They say it costs $8.68 per day to run a car. Three crews of two men each handle two cars. One conductor on the Garfield avenue run, kept tab on his receipts. During August he averaged $18.53 per day. If the other crews did as well the two cars, costing $17.76 to operate, would bring in $55.59, leaving a profit of $33.03 which would run three other cars at a dead loss and leave enough for repairs and incidentals.

The worst feature of the tie-up is the inconvenience to suburbanites. This morning Lester Park residents came in afoot unless they were lucky enough to catch a hand car on the Iron Range as one party did. But it was a nice morning for walking and that the employees have the sympathy of the public generally is quite apparent from street talk.

Most of the grumbling was at the cause of the tie-up and not at the tie-up itself. The engineer of the incline railway is at his post, but swears he will not turn a wheel until the matter is settled. The concerns for the time, therefore, are declared off.

A number of 'busses and carryalls were rigged up for carrying passengers early in the morning and are doing a thriving business. Tonight the strikers will consider the plan of putting on 'busses for the accommodation of the public.

The charter provision bearing on the case is very lax. It reads that in case the street railway company shall neglect to keep in operation any line, "then upon such reasonable notice as the village council may prescribe, said company shall forfeit the exclusive right herein granted so far as the same pertains to such neglected line." Upon ten days' notice the company may be required to remove any such neglected track.

The sign "No Men Wanted" still swings in the doorway of the power house. About 200 skilled men would be acceptable, however. The company is today advertising for conductors and motormen.

The Lakeside Land company has made arrangements for a short line train to Lakeside at 6 o'clock this evening. A train will also leave Lakeside at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Court Filings. David C. Robert, of Superior, has begun suit against Andrew B. Anderson to recover $355.50 on promissory notes. A complaint was also filed today in the suit of P. G. Burke against Simon J. Murphy et al., to quiet title to real estate.

In Christian Duerrberger against Herman Beckinger & Herman, a stipulation of dismissal was filed.
